

Lake meeting boycott Ignored by one trustee

By WARREN EDWARDS
Of The Press Staff
Ypsilanti Township Supervisor Fred H. Lunde stubbornly held an "open discussion" on the Ford Lake recreation project last night despite the fact that only one trustee showed up.

Twenty-one persons were in the audience, including State Rep. Roy Smith (R-Ypsilanti), former supervisor who long has been fighting for the lake project.

Leading the boycott of the meeting was Township Treasurer J. Robert Cooper who said yesterday the board had not had enough time "for research so vital to so important a decision." He said six members had signed a letter asking for postponement until the next regularly scheduled meeting Tuesday night.

But flanking Lunde last night was Trustee Willie D. (Bill) King, who said he had signed the letter because he had been told that there would be no meeting. He said he had decided to come anyway.

Also present was Township Attorney Gordon E. Gable. Missing were Cooper, Mrs. Anna Stepp, clerk, and Trustees Richard Branham, Henry J. Sturza and Frank Daniels.

Lunde had called the special meeting, saying that "it is time for the board to vote" on a joint recreation commission with the city of Ypsilanti.

The kernel of the discussion last night appeared to be when the city and the township would appoint a joint board which would ask Ford Motor Co. to donate the lake and then run any adjoining recreation areas. After that would come the problem of acquiring land south of the lake for park purposes.

One spectator stood up to say, "Let's stop all this bickering and get going."

Lunde drew applause when he predicted "unanimous approval of a joint board by the city and township a week from tonight."

City Manager John G. Cartwright already has said, "The city is ready."

But Lunde pointed to the upcoming city elections and the fact that Mayor John H. Burton, with whom Lunde has been working closely on the Ford Lake project, and Mayor Pro-tem Vaughn E. Filsinger are not running for re-election.

Ford Motor Co. has offered to donate the lake, which covers 1,000 acres — including a 3-acre island. Lunde said there would be more than 50 acres of land involved. Coming with the lake would be Ford's dam at Rawsonville Rd.

But Lunde said Ford's timetable calls for some kind of a decision by June.

Gable cited the fact that Ann Arbor is being sued for allowing Geddes Dam to deteriorate.

A Ford official, who did not want his name used, said the Rawsonville Rd. Dam was "built by Henry Ford and he never built a bad dam in his life. It looks like an old Model 'T' but it still works good."

Also involved would be a power plant still in use by Ford.

However, Lunde said the only purpose for the power plant would be for standby use, that it wouldn't be economical to operate.

Lunde said operation of the park would call for a budget of about $50,000. Based on population, Lunde said, this would mean some $35,000 from the township and $14,000 from the city.

On the same basis, Lunde said, there would be five township members on the joint commission and two from the city.

Lunde said there would be a wealth of recreation facilities possible, picnicking, golf, camping, archery, playgrounds, bird watching, the study of plants and boat launching. However, Lunde said, because of the pollution in Huron River there could be no swimming.

"Because of Ford's civic pride and the company's good

YHS students dribble to Jackson

On a sunny afternoon when your high school basketball team is playing in a state quarterfinal tournament and you're young and adventurous, maybe the best way to get there is to dribble your way. A delegation of young men from Ypsilanti High School started dribbling along its way 60 miles to Jackson Parkside shortly before noon today. The Braves tonight will play East Lansing in the quarterfinals at the Jackson school.

It was a bare board at the Ypsilanti Township Board meeting last night, but Supervisor Fred H. Lunde (left) went ahead and reviewed proposals for a Ford Lake recreation area. The only trustee present was Willie D. (Bill) King. Since there was no quorum for the special meeting, Lunde turned it into a public discussion.

Trade bias Cited in Delay call

Stating that black workers are faced with discrimination in Washtenaw County's building trades, Supervisor David R. Byrd asked the Board of Supervisors yesterday to withhold approval of two County electrical code amendments.

The amendments — pertaining to the licensing of "masters" tradesmen — represent "a further tightening of a bad situation," Byrd pointed out.

Donald Edmonds of Ypsilanti, supporting Byrd's request, stated that "I know and am prepared to prove that there are many black people in the county that are electricians and plumbers and are not members of the building trade union because the union won't accept them."

In response to discrimination charges, Dean Combs, business manager of Electrical Workers IBEW Local 252, termed Byrd's and Edmonds' charges "completely false." He pointed out that the union has Negroes in its apprentice program, although adding that there are no black union members who have advanced to the master's level.

Moon landing delayed Until Apollo 11 flight

SPACE CENTER, Houston, Tex. (AP) — High level space officials have decided to send Apollo 10 around the moon for 63 hours, but man's first landing there will have to await the flight of Apollo 11.

A source at the Manned Spacecraft Center said the space agency officials adopted this course at a meeting Tuesday.

Apollo 10 will be launched May 18, the source said, and fly into lunar orbit. Two of its crew will then fly the landing module to within 10 miles of the lunar surface, leaving the third crewman behind in the command module.

The lunar module descent stage will be jettisoned at 10 miles above the moon and the ascent stage flown up to a rendezvous with the command module. The ascent stage will be left in lunar orbit and the crew will return to earth in the command module.

A successful flight by Apollo 10 will virtually assure a moon landing attempt by Apollo 11, now scheduled for a July blastoff.

The reported decision appeared to end speculation that the first moon landing attempt would be made by Apollo 10, without waiting for the Apollo 11 launch.

According to one source, astronaut Thomas P. Stafford, the commander of Apollo 10, had actively campaigned to have his mission attempt the moon landing.

But, a source said, officials judged it would be more prudent to use Apollo 10 to gather more information about the moon and make the big try later with Apollo 11.

One concern is accurate tracking and orbital altitude determination. Engineers learned during Apollo 8 that differences in the gravitational pull of various areas of the moon cause altitude changes for orbiting spacecraft greater than had been noted on unmanned lunar orbiters.

The crew for Apollo 10 will be Stafford; Navy Cmdr. Eugene Cernan and Navy Cmdr. John Young, all veterans of the Gemini space flight series.

Smith bound over To Circuit Court

Robert L. Smith, charged with conspiracy to incite a riot during student demonstrations at Eastern Michigan University in February, was bound over to Circuit Court this morning at his preliminary examination in Ypsilanti District Court.

Smith, 20, was arrested after he allegedly addressed about 200 students in front of the Holy Trinity Chapel at 511 W. Forest Ave. Scheduled to be arraigned in Circuit Court April 11, he is free on a $5,000 bond.

Smith's attorney, Kenneth Cockrel of Detroit, entered a motion for dismissal of the charges on Feb. 26, and Judge Edward D. Deake suggested he file a brief on the motion.

Cockrel did not submit a brief this morning, but said he would defend Smith on the basis of freedom of speech.

Remarking that "freedom of speech is not absolute," Deake dismissed the motion, bound Smith over to Circuit Court.

Attending the courtroom session this morning were some of the EMU Negro students who picketed the Capitol in Lansing yesterday, asking amnesty for Smith and 13 other students who were arrested for trespassing.

A spokesman for the students, Chris B. Booker of Detroit, who lives at 1431 LeForge Rd., said the students came back from their trip to the governor's office feeling that they had got the "run-around" from state officials.

Gov. William Milliken told nine students, representing more than 100 Negro youths who traveled to Lansing, that he did not have "the authority, the right or the responsibility to intervene" and obtain amnesty for 14 black students arrested during a recent EMU disturbance.

"There is no authority on my part or on the state's part to grant amnesty," he said.

Negro Sen. Coleman A. Young, D-Detroit, who arranged the meeting between Milliken and the students, termed the governor's words a "frustrating, nonresponsive reply."

Young praised the black students for bringing their problems to the governor and the Legislature and said he was happy they had "come to the seat of government to voice their grievances."

Milliken also told the students they conducted the way they conducted themselves at the Capitol.

Chief of police Victim of robbery

Several pistol shots were fired at two fleeing hold-up men Tuesday night by Ypsilanti Police Chief Ray Walton after he and his wife were the victims of an armed robbery on S. Adams Street.

Chief Walton reported at 8:37 p.m. that he and his wife were robbed after they left the Lucille's Funeral Home at 411 S. Adams St. After leaving the home, Walton had helped his wife into their car and started to go around the parked vehicle when he was accosted by a Negro man with long hair.

The subject said, "give me your money," to which Walton replied that he didn't have any money. The chief then started to back across the street away from the car.

The robber pulled a small caliber silver plated revolver and stuck it against the chief's head and again demanded money. The robber struck the chief on the left side of the face and managed to grab his wallet, causing the chief to fall to the street near the curb.

Walton related to investigating officers that a second Negro male approached his car while he was under attack by the first man. The second robber pulled Mrs. Walton from the vehicle, pushing her to the pavement and grabbing her purse.

Both men took off through backyards on the west side of Adams St. and headed towards Hamilton and Harriet Sts.

After Walton got to his feet, he took off in pursuit of the robbers and fired three or four shots at them with his service revolver. He said they fired one round back at him. It was not believed that any of the shots found their mark.

It was reported that about $15 in cash along with personal papers were taken in the theft of Mrs. Walton's purse. The chief's wallet contained about $16 and papers.

St. John's Keeps mum On status

The "Save St. John's" committee met last night with the executive committee of St. John the Baptist Catholic Church to report on the status of its internal canvass undertaken to try and keep the debt-ridden high school from closing permanently in June.

No specific figures have been released. Nor were comments available this morning from committeemen, Rev. Fr. William King, pastor of St. John's, or secondary school officials from the archdiocese of Detroit, where the final decision on the school status will be made.

Not bad at all:

Wintertime is bowing out

By NANCY ABNER
Of The Press Staff

This was the winter that wasn't.

The "Old Man's" 1968-69 season, closing tomorrow after a 3-month run, should get rave reviews from warm weather lovers. But as far as kids wanting to go sledding and snow man building are concerned, it was a dud.

According to Detroit Metropolitan Airport weather data, only 14.8 inches of snow fell in the Detroit area this winter — well below the seasonal average of 37 inches. Winter only made a poorer showing in 1936-37 when 12.9 inches fell between December and February.

The snow tally ran this way: 5.9 inches fell in December, 6.3 inches in January, 2.3 inches in February and a scant .4 inches thus far in March. On Jan. 6 weathermen recorded the season's deepest snowfall — 3.3 inches.

Although temperatures ran about from .8 to 3.1 degrees below normal during the winter months, the season brought no major cold waves to the area. The winter's low was set on Jan. 1 with a -4 degree reading, and the mercury dipped below zero only on three other days — all in January.

Despite the recent dry spell which brought near-drought conditions to Ypsilanti, this winter was wetter than most. In December and January rainfall averaged 2.58 inches more than the usual 2.85 precipitation for the two months.

February, however, brought the fire hazards. Last month was the second driest month in the Detroit area since weather records were first kept here in 1872. Its .15 inches of precipitation was surpassed only by February, 1877, when .04 inches of rain fell.

March so far has offered little dry weather relief with its .06 inches of precipitation to date.

Ypsilanti banks study Prime interest increase

Ypsilanti banks were inclined today to go along on raising their prime interest rate to the all-time high of 7½ per cent in the wake of prime interest rate hikes by banks across the nation.

James F. Warner, president of the Ypsilanti Savings Bank, said, "We are forced to follow suit."

John D. Renton, president of the National Bank of Ypsilanti, said his bank hadn't decided yet. "We probably will," he said.

Both presidents agreed that the interest hike wouldn't affect the average borrower, that it applies mainly to the big corporations.

Detroit's Manufacturer's National Bank has followed the lead of banks in New York City, Philadelphia and other cities in raising its interest rates.

By businessman:

Laundry bonding plan hit

A local businessman with experience in the industrial laundry business Monday night addressed the City Council regarding a proposed $600,000 bonding program to attract an Ann Arbor firm and said "there are a lot of questions to be answered here" before endorsing such a project.

Robert Dickerman of 2511 Ellis Rd., president of Jackson Cleaners, advised the council to further study a proposal to provide $600,000 in bonding in order to relocate Varsity Laundry from its present location to one of several possible locations here.

The requested bonding had been rumored for several weeks and was revealed formally last Monday when officials of the Ann Arbor firm and the Industrial Development Corporation met with the Council. The proposal is being promoted on the basis that it would increase property valuations here and provide additional employment.

Dickerman's challenges regarding the proposed bonding brought a response from Mayor John H. Burton, who expressed doubts about the request.

"If it has anything to do with valuation, why isn't Ann Arbor making overtures to relocate them there?"

Dickerman asked. The move by the laundry is being forced because its lease is expiring and property values at its present downtown location have risen to a point where it isn't feasible for a business of its nature to remain there.

Dickerman also emphasized that the request for $600,000 "is a large sum for such a transaction."

"Being in the business and acquainted with the business, I could put up a very beautiful building with all the most modern equipment for $200,000," he observed. "I'm pretty perturbed about this and I would ask a lot of questions about such a transaction if I were this council."

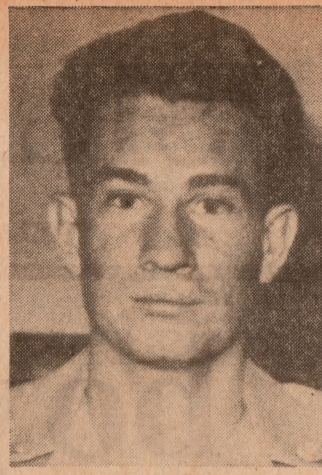

Dickerman emphasized that an industrial laundry wouldn't be competitive with any existing businesses here, but he also observed that the nature of such a service requires low-income laborers. He also stated that such a labor supply here is limited and unable to meet the present demands.

"No one can say that the City of Ann Arbor isn't astute in such affairs," Mayor Burton replied. "If it's so good, why would they want to let it get away from them? It hasn't been their nature in the past to be so benevolent to the City of Ypsilanti."

The mayor then assured Dickerman that the proposed bonding will be given considerable more study before a decision by the council. Since the subject was not on last night's agenda, no representative of the Ann Arbor laundry or the IDC was present to state its case.

EMU establishes 1-day Pupil orientation plan

A series of 1-day orientation sessions for incoming freshmen at Eastern Michigan University have been scheduled to run from June 18 through July 25, with 150 students expected to arrive on campus daily.

The program is designed to allow the future collegians to spend a day and night on the campus and to consider classes for the coming semester.

"The chief purpose of orientation is to introduce the student to the campus, to show him opportunities to be found here and to answer questions about university life and how we do things at Eastern," a spokesman for the admissions department explains.

The summer orientation, in addition, provides an opportunity for students to develop friendships that will continue during the academic year and to become acquainted with residence hall living.

Seventy-five new students will arrive at 1 p.m. each day and another 75 at 4 p.m. with arrangements for them to spend 24 hours on the campus. Individuals will be divided in groups of 15 students in order to tour the campus, receive counseling and register for the fall semester. Each group will have a counselor.

A fee of $10 will be charged to cover expenses, according to the spokesman.

Library Friends Plan England tour

Edgar A. Look, president of the Ypsilanti Friends of the Public Library has announced a September 22-day trip to England for the organization.

Look, a former airline pilot, said "We will leave Metropolitan Airport the evening of Sept. 13 and arrive in London the morning of Sept. 14. Return is on Oct. 4."

"We think we have devised a package that will satisfy historical and cultural interests, and will as well leave time for personal pursuits such as antique hunting, shopping and theatre," he explained.

The first two days will have escorted trips covering highlights of the city under guidance of London Escorts. Members of the group will have time during their stay to return to various areas that hold individual interest.

The itinerary includes excursions from London to places of interest such as Oxford, Canterbury, and the Windsor Castle, to list only a few.

A 5-day tour by private motor coach will take members to Cambridge, Stratford, Bristol, Bath, and Stonehenge.

"This will be one of the last chances to use pounds, shillings and pence since England is going to the decimal system in 1971," Look said.

Those who are not Friends of the Library but are interested in the tour, must become members to go. Miss Lucille Langworthy is membership chairman of the 110-member group.

Reservations may be made no later than May 31.

The group will be from 25 to 30 persons.

At the Friends' next meeting in mid-May, a motion picture and talk by a representative of the British Overseas Airways Corp. is scheduled.

Honors convocation Is scheduled at U-M

ANN ARBOR — Some 2,600 University of Michigan undergraduates will be saluted March 28 at the University's 46th annual Honors Convocation.

They and others in Hill Auditorium will hear Dr. James R. Lawson, president of Fisk University, speak on "The Role of Whites in the Black University," in ceremonies beginning at 10:30 a.m.

At the convocations, which will honor about 12 per cent of U-M's undergraduates, two students will be honored for straight A grades for seven terms — their entire career thus far at the university. The students are Raymond Taelle of Bethesda, Md., a senior in the College of Literature, Science and the Arts; and Lee Anderson of Birmingham, a senior in the College of Engineering.

Most students will receive class honors at the convocation for having an academic record equal to at least half A's and half B's for at least the past two terms.

Special recognition will be given to 137 James B. Angell Scholars — students who have compiled a straight-A academic record for at least the past two terms.

Dr. Lawson, the convocation speaker, has been Fisk's president since November, 1967, and has been with the Nashville institution since 1957. He holds a bachelor's degree from Fisk and a masters and a doctorate in physics from Michigan.

College honors Belleville pair

BELLEVILLE — Two students from Belleville are among 40 from Michigan included on the dean's list at Bob Jones University, Greenville, S.C. They earned at least a "B" average.

The Belleville students are Michael Paul Barrett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles P. Barrett of 7829 Beck Rd., a sophomore in the school of religion and Delores Lillian Perdue, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Perdue of 42015 Expressway, a freshman in the college of arts and sciences.

County appoints Crime committee

As part of a state-wide plan to receive federal funds under the 1968 Omnibus Crime Bill and Safe Street Act, the Board of Supervisors yesterday appointed a special committee to determine Washtenaw County's law enforcement needs and priorities.

The 11-man group will hold a public meeting next Monday night with other representatives from various areas of county law enforcement to begin gathering suggestions for law enforcement improvements ranging from "arrests, through prosecution all the way through correction," according to Assistant County Administrator K. Ross Childs.

Serving on the county law enforcement planning committee will be: Ypsilanti Atorney Vanzetti M. Hamilton, Assistant Prosecuting Attorney Casper H. Kast, County Friend of the Court Richard S. Benedek, Probate Court Director George Foltz, Probation Officer Max Peet, Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey, Ann Arbor Police Chief Walter E. Krasny, Dr. Robert Hendrix, Herbert L. Frisinger, County Supervisor Neil A. Mast, and Childs.

To aid in planning a comprehensive law enforcement program to submit to the federal government, the State Crime Commission has divided the state into fourteen regions — each to prepare a plan outlining its needs within the next few months.

Region No. 1 — seven counties in the Detroit metropolitan area including Washtenaw County, has received a $120,000 grant to finance its law enforcement study.

According to Childs, the county will have "at least until June" to prepare its law enforcement plan, with the final state deadline on submitting a comprehensive law enforcement plan to the federal government in October.

DeMolay Chapters Saluted

The Ypsilanti Chapter, Order of DeMolay, has joined with 2,500 other chapters in the world with local observances in the 50th Anniversary Commemoration of the youth group.

John Farley, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Farley of 1561 Russell St. and master counselor of the local chapter, today reported that the celebration's theme — "50 Years of Young Men on the Go!" — was selected "because it is indicative of the growth and activities of the Ypsilanti chapter."

In accord with the observance, Mayor John H. Burton has issued a proclamation declaring 1969 as International DeMolay Year. The organization is for young men from 14 to 21-years-old.

In his declaration, the mayor asked citizens "join in saluting the young men of the Order of DeMolay and in expressing our grateful appreciation of the fine examples set by these young leaders in contributing to the welfare and character of other young men in this community, thus aiding in the development and leadership of tomorrow."

Lunde said that under terms of the deal the lake area could be used only for recreation.

Edward Sprague, a member of the Park Commission, said that presently there could be no marinas on the lake.

Lunde said the city and township would have the condemnation power to buy more land south of the lake but that "no one wants to do that. Perhaps someone will grant us some land."

Tax revenue from the lake property would be negligible, Lunde said.

Referring to pollution, Lunde said that contrary to many beliefs, Ypsilanti Township "is not a polluter of Ford Lake." He said Ford Motor Co. is spending millions to fight pollution. He also praised the efforts of the Peninsular Paper Co.

Smith said, "we can accept grants or buy land over a number of years."

Gable said the two communities have committed themselves to appropriate enough money to maintain the dam. But he warned that they are picking up a substantial liability in support of the dam, mentioning Ann Arbor's trouble over Geddes Dam. He also questioned public access to launch a boat on the lake.

Lunde said the project has been supported by both Republicans and Democrats.

In winding up the meeting, the embattled Lunde said his wife was present for the first time. "She said she wouldn't miss this one," he said, adding that "two girls from my office are present — a first for them, too."

mining these and four additional amendments proposed by the State Electrical Commission to bring Washtenaw County's electrical code — which went into effect Jan. 12 — into line with the state electrical statute.

After hearing the two supervisors' objections to the licensing amendments, the board moved to refer all the proposed code changes back to its Property Committee.

Supervisor Richard Waltherhouse said that all six amendments to the electrical code should be approved to insure uniform electrical code provisions throughout the state.

He cited, however, a recent statement by Washtenaw Community College President David C. Ponitz that "it is more difficult for a Negro to become a plumber or an electrician than a PhD."

An architecture instructor at Washtenaw Community College, Byrd pointed out that county building trade unions discriminate against blacks seeking licenses as skilled laborers by placing a greater emphasis on educational background rather than work ability in license examinations.

Byrd, who has helped form a Black Contractors Association which is now actively seeking to involve more Negroes in the building trades, is calling for the Board of Supervisors "to dedicate itself to helping alleviate serious discrimination problems."

He sees a refusal by the board to approve the two electrical code amendments on licensing as a first step in this direction.

Edmonds told the board yesterday that he is the only black living in Washtenaw County who is a member of Painters Union Local 514. "And I know what I had to go through to become a union member," he said.

Appearing before the board, Douglas Harris, president of Ypsilanti's National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) chapter, said that many qualified persons are withheld masters' licenses in Washtenaw County because of local building trade unions' policy not to recognize work experience outside the county as fulfilling eligibility requirements for an advanced license.

Smith's tax plan endorsed

The Ypsilanti Township Republican Committee has voted to endorse a school tax amendment to the State Constitution proposed by Rep.

Roy Smith (R-Ypsilanti).

Smith's proposal would, in a large measure, substitute an income tax for property taxes to support public schools.

A resolution passed by the GOP committee called the property tax "inequitable as well as inadequate."

The committee said it backs "a basic and far-reaching change from the property tax concept to the income tax concept."

The resolution said that "the change must involve revision of the Michigan Constitution so as to guarantee substantial property tax relief."

sion by the actual elimination of the authority of school districts to levy property taxes for school operating expenses."

Smith calls his proposal the "fair share program for adequate and equal opportunity for education."

Elected chairman of the Ypsilanti Township Republican Committee was Donald E. Johnston of 1349 Skyway Dr. Other officers elected were Elwood J.C. Kurth of 273 Taft Ave., vice-chairman; Mrs. Edmund Gunther of 806 Nash Ave., secretary, and Mrs. Herbert Dennis of 1076 Zephyr Ave., treasurer.

Heart recipient's wife Enthusiastic after visit

ANN ARBOR — Gerald Rector, who swapped his volleyball size heart for a normal one Sunday night, was visited at University Hospital Tuesday by his wife, Virginia, who reported: "He looks real good. His heart beat is steady and his color very good."

A tube in Rector's throat which had aided breathing was removed Tuesday, and the hospital merely said in its afternoon bulletin he was "conscious, alert and vital signs stable."

Mrs. Rector said they exchanged a few words and that she particularly noted the heart beat, "because before it was always irregular."

Michigan's third heart transplant patient, Rector was given the heart of Roland J. Hoag, a 24-year-old Westland man who had died shortly before Sunday night. Because of degenerating tissues, Rector's heart had grown five times normal size.

While Rector still is being fed intravenously, the hospital said he was able to take some fluids by mouth Tuesday. Two men who received new hearts at University Hospital earlier this year have since gone home.

Junk cars yanked In city's cleanup

A program designed to keep the city clean has been launched by city officials with the removal of junk cars and the distribution of more trash barrels in business districts.

Warren S. Wright, assistant to the city manager, today announced that arrangements can be made through the City Inspections Department to have violating junk cars removed free of charge. Wright explained that the service is being started in order to relieve instances in which the car owners are unable to have them moved.

The junk car ordinance prohibits parking or storing of any such vehicle unless it is enclosed from view. In order to be considered an operable vehicle, it must have a current license plate, an engine that runs, four wheels, inflatable tires and a workable battery.

Wright said that owners of violating vehicles will be sent notices to have them removed within 10 days. Non-complying persons will be ticketed and can be arrested, according to the city official.

"The administration of this ordinance isn't meant to create hardships for anyone but only to rid the city of these eyesores," Wright explained.

The assistant also reported that the City Parks and Forestry Department has stationed additional trash barrels through business areas to provide a proper place for wastepaper.

Also it has been announced that the department is obtaining six new planters to be placed in the downtown area along with new benches to be positioned at Public Library. According to department foreman Leonard Levinski, flowering trees will be put in the planters.

Health Board Appointed

The Board of Supervisors yesterday appointed a 5-member County Board of Health, including Mrs. Earl Roth of 101 Elm St.

Also appointed were Supervisors Neil A. Mast of Scio Township and O. Herbert Ellis of Ann Arbor, Dr. Paul W. Gikas of Ann Arbor, and James C. Hendley of Manchester.

Ellis will serve for a 1-year term, Mast for two years, and the other three appointees for three years.

The appointment of a County Board of Health is in connection with the state reapportionment of county boards of supervisors, which, in Washtenaw County, reduced the number of board members from 39 to 13.

Under the previous organization, a board of supervisors' committee had as its specific function working with the county Health Department. With the 13-man board, however, the board's Health, Education and Welfare Committee has "too broad a scope" to work on a continual basis with the health department, Board Chairman Bent F. Nielsen said.

In other action, the supervisors supported its Law Enforcement Committee's decision not to pay any amount of Sheriff Douglas J. Harvey's $3,682 emergency bill resulting from State Labor Mediation Board hearings last year.

Senate probes organized crime

WASHINGTON — A seven-member commission has taken control of the most influential core-groups of organized crime, the "families" of the Cosa Nostra, since the recent death of its leader, Vito Genovese.

The new overlords of this underworld organization are Carlo Gambino, Joseph Colombo and Paul Sciacca, all of New York; Angelo Bruno of Philadelphia; Stefano Maggaddino of Buffalo; Joseph Zerilli of Detroit and Samuel Giancana of Chicago.

As members of the high-level ruling commission, the seven serve as a combination legislature, supreme court, board of directors and arbitration panel for an estimated 5,000 members of the Cosa Nostra.

By Paul A.
Scott

Press
Special
Writer

That's the central finding of a massive study of organized crime prepared for the Senate by Sen. John McClellan, chairman of the Judiciary Subcommittee on Criminal Laws and Procedure.

These and other heretofore secret details of the Cosa Nostra operations were gathered by McClellan's investigators for his Subcommittee's hearings this week on legislation designed to give the Department of Justice new weapons to fight organized crime.

Other highlights of McClellan's wide-ranging study include:

"The families of the Cosa Nostra, coupled with their allies and employees, constitute the heart of organized crime in the U.S. at this time."

"Organized crime finds its greatest source of revenue today in syndicated gambling. Its estimated annual net take is $7 billion."

"Next to gambling, the importation and distribution of narcotics, chiefly heroin, is organized crime's major illegal activity. Its net income from narcotics is $350 million."

"Loan sharking provides organized crime with annual revenues of $350 million."

"An average of 250 business concerns are taken over each year by organized crime through various forms of extortion."

In outlining the expanding activities of the Cosa Nostra, Sen. McClellan revealed that the crime syndicate now has 22 "groups" or "families" active in seven states — New York, New Jersey, Illinois, Louisiana, Michigan, Pennsylvania and Rhode Island.

"The Cosa Nostra's family organization," according to

McClellan, "is rationally designed with an integrated set of positions geared to maximize profits and to protect its members, particularly its leadership from law enforcement activity."

Pointing out that the hierarchical structure of the "families" closely parallels that of the Mafia groups that operated for almost a century on the Island of Sicily, McClellan said:

"Each family is headed by a 'boss,' whose primary functions are the maintenance of order and the maximization of profit. Beneath each boss is an 'underboss.' He collects information for the boss; he relays messages to him and passes on instructions to underlings."

"On the same level with the underboss is the 'consigliere,' who is often an older member of the family, partially retired, whose judgment is valued. Below him are the 'caporegime,' who serve either as buffers between top men and lower level personnel, or as chiefs of operating units."

"As buffers, they are used to maintain insulation from the investigative procedures of the police. To maintain their insulation, the leaders avoid direct communication with the workers. All commands, information, complaints, and money flow back and forth through buffers."

In throwing his full support behind Atty. Gen. John Mitchell's recent decision to use wiretapping and other electronic surveillance to combat organized crime, McClellan pointed out the necessity for employing these methods.

According to McClellan's report, two other positions in the Cosa Nostra organization make it substantially different from other criminal organizations.

These positions are the "enforcer" and the "corruptor." The "enforcers" duty is to maintain organizational integrity by arranging for the maiming and killing of recalcitrant members or potential witnesses against the group. The "corruptor" seeks to establish relations with those public officials and other influential persons whose assistance is necessary to achieve the organization's over-all goals. Through these positions, each family seeks to guarantee its continuing existence.

This Day In History

By the Associated Press
Today is Wednesday March 19, the 78th day of 1969. There are 287 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1920, the U.S. Senate rejected the Versailles treaty providing for a League of Nations. The vote set the tone for a decade of U.S. isolationist policy.

On this date: In 1628, the English founded the Massachusetts colony.

In 1860, William Jennings Bryan, nominated three times for the presidency, was born in Salem, Ill.

In 1918, the U.S. Supreme Court upheld the constitutionality of the Adamson Act, which reduced the working day of all railroad employees to eight hours.

In 1942, during World War II, American men between the ages of 45 and 64 were ordered to register with Selective Service for non-military duty.

In 1943, German forces captured the Soviet City of Belgorod.

In 1959, Tibet's spiritual ruler, the Dalai Lama, fled to India during hostilities with Communist China.

Local GI proud to serve, But questions U.S. backing

The following excerpts are from a letter written last summer by a local GI in training and anticipating going to Vietnam. The letter was sent to a close friend here, and several parts are especially timely.

"...I guess I really don't mean that I don't care if I come back. I guess what I really mean is that I'm not worried about it, so it doesn't matter too much..."

"But I do feel that I've got to go to Vietnam and get a good combat-type job; one that takes a little skill as well as luck to come back from... Yes, I did have to go into the Army. If I had never served in the Army, I could never consider myself a man, because there was nothing really wrong with me. If I'd have had a serious or permanent type disability, well, I might have been able to live with myself. I guess I had to prove to everyone that I was a man, or to myself, anyway..."

"I believe in what America is trying to do for the Vietnamese. But, I feel we're doing it kinda half-heartedly. We seem to be willing to fight, but only to a certain degree."

"We say we'll stay until South Vietnam is free. If we go on like we're doing, my little brother and (other) little kids will be fighting there. I pray to God that my little brother and all the other kids now, never have to face a war."

"As long as we refuse to bomb the main supply port of Haiphong and the capital of Hanoi, the North Viets will never stop their aggression."

"As long as TV, the papers and radio give so much publicity to draft-card burners and anti-war demonstrations, the Communists will have no reason to believe that the American people are sincere to their promises. The Communists get a real morale boost to see films of demonstrations, riots and sit-ins. Meanwhile the American soldier wonders what he's fighting for when the people back home don't believe he's right. It's hard on him."

"But if the people of this country ever let the leaders know that they're wholeheartedly behind them to fight and win the war in Vietnam, and tell them to stop playing politics with American lives and to let the War or Defense Department and Joint Chiefs of Staff run the war, well, then and only then will the U.S. win an honorable victory in Vietnam..."

"I guess this is all big talk for a fella who's never really had anyone shoot at him trying to kill him. And undoubtedly when I get to Vietnam and get shot at, and have to shoot to kill people, I'll wish I was back (home). I pray to God that I do perform well under fire; I could never live with myself if I didn't..."

The local soldier's personal prophecy was borne out; he was sent to Vietnam and conducted himself well, and America is still divided over the war. But he was killed recently, one of the hundreds of American servicemen who have died since the stalled Vietnam "peace talks" began last fall in Paris.

Washington Report

Seeming hard-line revival Threatens U.S.-Soviet talks

By ROBERT S. ALLEN

and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — Recurring reports of resurgent hard-line policies in the Kremlin are beginning to cast a cloud over President Nixon's hopes for talks soon with Russian leaders.

The question raised by these reports is whether the Brezhnev-Kosygin-Podgorny government can engage in fruitful talks on such politically difficult topics as missile limitation, given Moscow's present ideological climate.

The Senate's consideration of the nuclear non-proliferation treaty was set against a background which included such talks. Congressional debate on the Sentinel anti-missile system (ABM) has been conducted in the same context.

A different tone is evident in Moscow, however. To some experienced observers, it is a tone which suggests a return of cold-war policies which are externally aggressive and internally repressive. For example, the party publication Sovetskaya Russia made the United States a target, with Communist China, of a sharp editorial attack following the Sino-Soviet border clash on the Ussuri River. The same editorial demanded a new vigilance against ideological backsliding in Soviet Society.

For these observers, events beginning with the Russian-led invasion of Czechoslovakia have dealt a serious blow to the idea that circumstances would force Russian Communism, more or less steadily, towards a more liberal stance and push Kremlin leaders towards détente.

As is often the case for Kremlin watchers seeking to chart Soviet policy, the evidence of what is up is conflicting.

At the same time that Sovetskaya Russia was editorializing generally against the United States and the West, Izvestia was reaffirming in its columns the Kremlin's desire for arms limitation talks.

Izvestia is thought by some experts to reflect Kosygin's views in matters of this kind, and there were speculative reports that the Izvestia article was to be read in Russia as a rebuttal to Moscow's own hard-liners who are opposed to missile limitation talks with the United States.

Even if the evidence indicates division in the Kremlin, rather than hard-liners on the rise, however, the problem for President Nixon is the same. There are hazards for him if (as previously suggested here) the Kremlin may be approaching one of its periodic upheavals.

Student adds comments to drug issue

TO THE EDITOR:

I suppose you have received many letters defending East Junior High against your recent publication. This one is in defense of your article. It seemed very accurate to me. Two teachers were attacked by students already this school year.

Many times, in the three years of my attendance, I have heard of gang beatings. If students are careful, it is easy to get away with a quick cigarette in the bathroom, skipping classes, skipping lunch and sneaking out of class.

The authorities want more power. Why should they get more power to discipline when they won't take advantage of the power they have? If you go to them, when someone has threatened you, they send you back to class. If you don't check out before 2:52, watch out!

TO THE EDITOR:

May I address myself to Shirley (Give mom and dad a break!) with respect to the Willow Run school millage.

Sorry, I can't agree with you. It's so very easy to sit back and complain. Get up and do something about it. If you think your child isn't being taught English in seventh grade, find out why. For heaven's sake don't ask your child; ask his teacher.

As for our school officials, they would like to do their job; that's what they're hired for. I talked to them, attended meetings and asked questions concerning the school millage. I came away with two impressions. 1. We

It isn't at all hard to believe narcotics find their way into soft drinks at dances. The only way they could solve this would be to declare no dances! This would only hurt the "good" students.

The only way to change the present situation is for the people running our school to get up some courage. The Ypsilanti public schools need help! For the sake of others like me, I sincerely hope they get it.

Mr. Joslyn said he has faith in the students. Fifty per cent of the students deserve faith. The other 50 cause all the trouble. The other kids seem to want to protect the reputation of our school. I feel the reputation will be determined by the action of a student body, and not what the newspaper prints about it.

Truthful Freshman

definitely need to have the millage passed if we are to give our children a decent education. 2. They care. No two words can give a better description of them. They care enough so that they have spent hundreds of hours of overtime trying to raise enough money so that your child will go to school for a full day instead of a half-day, a very real possibility next fall if the millage doesn't pass.

So I say, moms and dads, get your hands out of your pockets. What are a few dollars a month, if it's for your most precious possession, your child? Give your kids a break — vote 'yes' in the next election.

British mini-force takes Anguilla without opposition

LONDON (AP) — A British mini-force landed on the rebellious Caribbean island of Anguilla, without opposition early today, the Foreign Office announced.

In an operation that the government named Calypso and Londoners called the Bay of Piglets, the frigates Rothesay and Minerva put ashore a task force of paratroopers and marines, believed to number 315 men.

They had been flown from London Tuesday to the island of Antigua, 70 miles southeast of Anguilla.

The brief foreign office communiqué said Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart would make a statement in the House of Commons later today.

The landing force was accompanied by Anthony Lee, a career diplomat the government planned to install as British commissioner in charge of the tiny island.

Before the landing, many of the 6,000 Anguillians had conceded privately that they could not hope to repel British troops. But their comments for publication, made to scores of newsmen who converged on the island, were defiant.

Acting President Ronald Webster had appealed to the islanders late Tuesday night to submit if there was an invasion, saying: "There's no use in shedding blood foolishly."

"We are prepared to fight," said Ronald Webster, Anguilla's 35-year-old acting president. "The people of Anguilla have contemplated the possibility of armed invasion for the past 21 months and have prepared themselves accordingly."

But he added: "It is difficult for us to believe that England, as a world power of respected integrity, would proceed contrary to its own stated policy."

Anguilla, an impoverished island whose main product is salt, broke away from federation with the islands of St. Kitts and Nevis on May 31, 1967, claiming the federation was dominated by St. Kitts and they were getting a raw deal. The Anguillians reaffirmed their independence in a referendum last month and scheduled a presidential election April 3.

At the time of the referendum, the Anguillians claimed their quarrel was not with Britain but with Robert L. Bradshaw, prime minister of the St. Kitts-Nevis-Anguilla federation. They said he treated their island as a stepchild and retarded its economic growth.

Hopes for a quick settlement collapsed last week when William Whitlock, a British government official, was run off the island a few hours after he arrived to confer with Webster.

British Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart told the House of Commons Tuesday: "It is not part of our purpose that the Anguillians should live under an administration they do not want." But at the same time he made clear Britain opposed immediate independence.

He said the government wants to install a commissioner to rule the island in the name of the British Crown, for years if necessary, while talks are held to determine Anguilla's future.

Webster said Anguilla rejected this because "it was inconsistent with the expressions of the people of Anguilla. Nothing new was offered except a commissioner with dictatorial powers and arbitrary rule."

These Anguillan women go about their salt sack cleaning chores as life on that Caribbean island progresses as usual despite reports that the British military were about to invade it. The island, in a state of rebellion, was invaded this morning. (AP Photo)

Cong attack switches Sector around Da Nang

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong's spring offensive ripped into South Vietnam's northern sector today as big enemy rockets slammed into a Da Nang shantytown and ground troops made heavy attacks on U.S. and South Vietnamese forces guarding the nation's second largest city.

The U.S. Command also reported that the massive counter offensive by more than 10,000 American troops northwest of Saigon had killed 123 North Vietnamese soldiers Tuesday in its first day of operations. One American was killed and 23 wounded, the command said, indicating most of the attacks on the enemy were by planes and artillery.

AP Correspondent John T. Wheeler reported from Da Nang that 13 Vietnamese civilians were killed and 21 were wounded when ten 100-pound rockets exploded in the slum neighborhood around a Navy pier before dawn. It was the highest civilian toll in the four times Da Nang has been shelled since the enemy's spring offensive started Feb. 23.

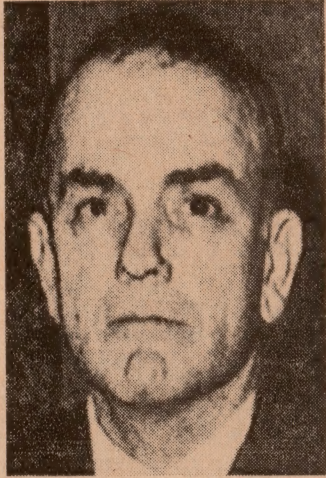

A South Korean civilian working for the U.S. Navy also was killed, and three U.S. Marines were wounded. Twenty miles south of Da Nang, 400 North Vietnamese troops laid down a mortar barrage on a U.S. Marine night camp, then stormed the camp with flamethrowers, machine guns, rocket-propelled grenades and small arms.

The Marines fired their artillery point-blank into the charging enemy troops and reported killing 72 of them, but the fight also took the lives of 12 Americans and 30 were wounded.

One rocket attack being prepared for Saigon was blocked when two alert GIs on a watchtower, James Wales of North Olmsted, Ohio, and Pfc. Eugene Griesing of Weatherley, Pa., observed radar traces of people moving about a mile away.

They called in mortar fire, and the radar scopes showed the people running off. At dawn searching troops found six 122mm rockets aimed at the heart of Saigon, their detonating wires running together into one line.

Two ships Collide

DEAL, England (AP) — Liberian and Polish ships collided in dense fog today off England's southeast coast and the Liberian freighter was abandoned, the coast guard reported.

The Liberian ship was the 6,933-ton Garden City. It was first identified as a larger American freighter of the same name, but, the coast guard said the stricken ship was out of Monrovia and owned by the Atlantic Maritime Co.

The coast guard said it was going down by the nose.

The crew took to two lifeboats and was being picked up by the Polish ship, the 10,500-ton government steamship Zagłębie Dabrowskie.

Pope Paul to visit East Africa in July

British Strike Settled

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI will visit East Africa in July to consecrate a shrine to African martyrs in Kampala, Uganda, and attend a conference of African bishops there.

The Pope announced today that he would make his seventh trip outside Italy since he was elected six years ago. He said the trip to Uganda would be "rapid," indicating that he didn't plan to stop in any other African country. It was believed that the pontiff feared political implications would be read into any other stops.

It will be Pope Paul's second visit to Africa. In 1962, while archbishop of Milan, he visited South Africa, Ghana and Nigeria.

The Pope said he was going to Kampala, the capital of Uganda, in response to repeated invitations to consecrate an altar in a new sanctuary honoring African martyrs he had canonized.

Vatican circles said the trip was another demonstration of Pope Paul's view of himself as an "apostle on the move." Since becoming Pope, he has visited the Holy Land, India, the United States, Turkey, Portugal and Colombia.

The 71-year-old pontiff made the announcement to a throng of Romans and pilgrims assembled in St. Peter's Basilica for a papal mass on the feast of St. Joseph. The Pope said he would make the trip in the second half of July.

The Pope made special mention of "the people of Nigeria whom we know and love so well, who are so tormented by the sorrowful events in their land." But he is not expected to visit Nigeria.

LONDON (AP) — Strikers at Ford Motor Co. plants in England were ordered back to work by their union officials today following settlement of a four-week strike that had stunted Britain's export drive.

Union officials Tuesday night accepted a compromise company offer.

All 38,000 strikers could be back at work by Thursday, the union said.

The strike was estimated to have cost Ford 32 million pounds — $76.8 million.

Officials of the giant transport and electrical unions, which had led the strike and have 28,000 members in Ford's 23 British plants, agreed to the company offer.

The strike began as a wildcat walkout after union negotiators had accepted a 5-million-pound — $12 million-pay package.

Spring suggests jogging

By IDA JEAN KAIN

With spring just a balmy breeze away, Americans are warming up to jogging. Far from being a passing fad, enthusiasm for jogging grows apace. If you feel wonderful when you jog, you must be doing something right.

Jogging is brisk walking or easy running. You can jog outdoors or indoors. But no matter where you jog, go by the rules.

With safety in mind, I consulted Glenn Swengros, a recognized authority on physical fitness and president of Fitness Incorporated.

What mistakes is the amateur jogger most likely to make? According to our expert, the amateur doesn't pace himself rightly. The paramount rule is that you must allow for a warm-up and a tapering-off period. Ease your pace but stay in motion until the heart rate and respiration have returned to pre-exercise level.

One "athlete" jogged breathlessly up to a chair and slumped down, saying,

Ravel avoided

Did you know that material won't fringe or ravel during cutting if you pin the pattern firmly to the fabric and trace around the edges with soap?

In case of rain

A quick way to dry the inside of wet boots is to use your portable hair dryer. The warm air does the trick.

Steaks and chops ought to be cut at least an inch thick for the best broiling. A slice of ham ought to be cut at least half an inch thick.

Lemons keep juicier and fresher in water than any other way. Pack them in a quart jar, add water, and keep it in the refrigerator.

"Whew!" It sure feels good to stop." The athletic director promptly got him on his feet again, walking at a slow, easy pace, gently swinging his arms.

That's the proper rhythm: Warm up, work out, and taper off. There is a vital reason for this sequence of motion. When a person is exercising vigorously, the oxygen demands of the body are greater than they are during normal activity, and therefore the heart has to increase its output to meet the extra demands.

If the jogger stops all action abruptly — as he does when he flops into a chair — this makes the work of the heart much more difficult. During this tapering-off period of easy walking and arm swinging, the contracting and relaxing of the muscles in the arms and legs aid circulation by acting as auxiliary pumps to speed the blood through the body. The individual who stops abruptly makes the heart do all the work.

To avoid sore calf muscles, jog flat-footed, or strike with the heel first and then follow through onto the ball of the foot. When you jog on your toes, you'll have sore calf muscles — every time you run.

I asked our authority to spell out for us the proportionate timing — how many minutes for the warm up, how many for the workout, and how many for tapering off. For a 15-minute jog session, figure 3 to 5 minutes to warm up and 2 to 3 minutes to taper off.

Jog by the rules for healthy, happy jogging.

MISS WENDY WISMER

Mrs. Taft planted tree That launched festival

(Special to The Press)
WASHINGTON, D.C. — Fifty-seven years ago, Mrs. William Howard Taft, wife of the President, ceremoniously planted the first Japanese Cherry Tree in the Nation's Capital.

Thus on March 27, 1912, began an event which has taken on national and international significance.

Today over 2,000 of the little trees line the banks of the tidal basin and circle the Jefferson Memorial. Others line a scenic two-mile drive around Hains Point, a man-made peninsula that juts into the Potomac River. Still more of the cherry trees surround the 555 foot tall Washington Monument.

In 1927, the National Cherry Blossom Festival officially got its start. Washington school children staged a pageant, reenacting the original planting of the first tree.

Official opening for the 1969 National Cherry Blossom Festival is the lighting of the 300 year old Japanese Stone Lantern on the Tidal Basin. Opening ceremonies include brief remarks by leading Federal and District Government officials.

Dates of the festival are April 8 to 13.

Events will include a luncheon fashion show, several massed-band concerts, a pageantry program with the Third Infantry (Old Guard) and a college drill team combination program. A parade April 12 will star the Cherry Blossom Queen, as will the crowning ceremonies at the Washington Monument (in duplicate) April 12 and 13.

Among the 53 princesses is a former Ypsilanti, who may be the queen chosen over the Festival.

Miss Wendy Wismer, daughter of Mrs. Charles Potter of Chevy Chase, Md., and a former student at Roosevelt School, is among princesses from each state in the National Cherry Blossom Festival at Washington, D.C. She is the daughter of the late Harry Wismer and her stepfather is former Senator Potter. She is publishing firm executive secretary in New York City.

For those visiting Washington at that time, details may be obtained from the Washington Convention and Visitors Bureau at 1616 K Street, N.W., 20006.

HELOISE'S HINTS

Tilt can hinder freezer

By HELOISE CRUSE

DEAR HELOISE: My refrigerator has to be defrosted every four days. What's wrong? I am so sick of it, Heloise. Please, please help. Mrs. B. Alexander

Let's not get sick over it. Instead, why don't you see because they have to be level. That's the first thing I'd do, because they have to be level to percolate properly.

To test this, use a carpenter's level the next time you defrost it. Put this in the floor of the freezing compartment. If you have no level, take a little glass of water and set it in the center of the freezer, and fill it completely with water. Using a teaspoon, keep adding water until the water actually stands up above the rim of the glass. Know that sounds crazy, but it will!

If any of the water spills over one side of the glass before you get your "standing ovation" ... Taint level, McGee!

I have never seen a refig that didn't have little manual levelers on each leg, but in case yours doesn't, put something under the low leg until it balances.

Many refrigerators are on linoleum and the legs make indentations in it, and this causes the trouble.

You can also open the door at a 45-degree angle. If it stays open (doesn't move), it's most likely level. If it shuts or falls back open, that's another sign you found the culprit.

Finally, your thermostat or motor (the refrigerator's, not yours) could be bad. Let's just hope not. That means professional repair bills.

P.S. Write any time. And I do wish you good luck. Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: Since I've had my portable dishwasher, I found a great use for the dishwasher compartment that comes out of the drain hose. It cleans combs and brushes in a whistle. Mrs. W. J. Brown

Dear Folks: If you want to stretch your coffee budget a bit:

After the first pot cooks — don't empty the grounds. Leave the same wet grounds in the coffee basket and put in a few spoons of instant coffee on top. Then try reperfing another pot of coffee. Always use less instant coffee than usual. I use about half.

True, you are drinking practically instant coffee, but by the time it has perked through the damp grounds again you get the flavor of the real coffee. This is a good idea to remember on the mornings that you are short on real coffee. It certainly expands a tight budget.

Every little bit helps, I guess. Heloise

DEAR HELOISE: Save small pieces of toilet soap until you have quite a few different colors. Then take an ice pick and chip them into small pieces, or grate them on your large grater. (I like to mix all colors with a bar or two of another soft white bath soap.) Then take about one yard of cording, double it and, with a little water, mold a ball of soap at the ends of this doubled cord so it can be hung on the shower faucet.

This idea is great for a rainy day. Sit the children around the kitchen table and let them mold turtles, cats, other animals and objects from this. They love to work with these little soap chips, and "Look Mom, clean hands ..." Helen Blair

Don't wash away whey, Pleads food scientist

EAST LANSING — More whey should be used for human consumption instead of for animal feeds or wasted down the drain, says a Michigan State University food scientist, Dr. J. Robert Brunner.

Whey is the watery part of milk that separates from the coagulating milk protein during cheese making.

"This protein-rich by-product of the cheese industry should be used in a higher paid, and more useful, outlet," Dr. Brunner says.

MSU scientists have come up with one combination of whey and orange juice that is a complete one-meal drink. Vegetable oils can be added or not added, as desired.

"Such quick-serve meals may someday compete with milk as tasty sources of good nutrition," he contends.

Already, he said, other drinks are substituting for milk. For example, while the population in this country is increasing, the milk sales remain about the same.

One-meal drinks designed by the MSU food scientists contain about one per cent protein, two per cent fats, and four per cent lactose, plus vitamins and minerals.

Dr. Brunner says, "I would like to see such a product picked up by some dairy."

DAR chapter To meet Friday

Details of this week's Daughters of the American Revolution state convention will be fresh in the minds of two Ypsilanti members when the local chapter meets on Friday.

The chapter meeting will be on Friday at 12:45 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Richard S. Warner at 510 Roosevelt Blvd., with the hostess being responsible for the program.

The chapter's regent, Mrs. Clayton A. Hopp, and delegate, Mrs. Ivy Walton, and Mrs. Hopp's daughter, Lisa, who is serving as a page at the convention, will return tomorrow from the three-day convention in Flint.

Annual reports had been sent in previously and they took along the chapter's press book.

At the March board meeting last Friday, a final roundup of plans for the convention were the main order of business. The hostess, Mrs. Lynn Bell, served dessert.

The annual meeting in May was discussed, with Mrs. E.G. Wiedman taking the task of finding a location. No annual reports will be given, but a review of accomplishments and a prediction of next year's projects, is planned, with it mainly a social meeting.

Add chemicals?

Jelly fans never Had it so good

By HILDEGARD HESSE
Extension Marketing Agent

When your grandmother, or mine, made a batch of jelly, it was an operation according to her own exacting standards. Sometimes it jelled, sometimes it had to be boiled over again, assuming that it was reheatable.

When it had set long enough, it was covered with a thin layer of paraffin wax, and perhaps, but not always, with a paper cap or a tin cover. Then it was set on a dark shelf in a cool place, until it was wanted. Then, not too seldom, it might be found infested with a growth of gray mold, and had to be discarded.

When the housewife of today wants jelly, she doesn't have to select and sort the fruit, peel or otherwise process it, add the sugar and the pectin — or apples in the real old days — cook it, drip it, put it in glasses, seal it. This had to be done for each kind of jelly, and the old-time housewife had many varieties.

Add to this, the canning of fruits, vegetables, and even in some households, meats — and the housewife of today can hardly imagine how easy she has it in comparison, unless she has a long memory.

Why, then, do some of today's housewives worry about chemicals added to food? They are afraid of vague possible future injury from such additives, and particularly do they fear cancer. Cancer is a word to scare people with, and so it has been skillfully used by groups of persons who, for reasons best known to themselves, wish to discredit the food industry, and the government officials charged with the responsibility for protecting the nation's food supply.

Ideas with Baked goods Suggested

Cookies can be kept nice and fresh in the cookie jar by adding a slice of fresh bread. Change the bread every other day.

Store leftover bread in the freezer and use it whenever a sprinkling of bread crumbs is needed. Grate the crumbs on the coarse side of the grater while the bread is still frozen.

You can re-use a cinnamon stick just as you would a vanilla bean. Remove the cinnamon stick from the mixture in which it was heated, rinse in water and allow to dry. Wrap it tightly in plastic wrap and it will be ready for another round of service.

Make a "poor man's Italian garlic bread" out of leftover hot-dog rolls. Break the rolls open lengthwise and spread each half with butter. Sprinkle with garlic salt and pop into the oven for a few minutes until brown.

Cauliflower will taste like a brand-new vegetable if you boil it in milk instead of in the usual water.

Tests diagnose in time for cure

ANN ARBOR — Phenylketonuria, an inherited metabolic disease called PKU for short, no longer results in severe mental retardation if diagnosed in time.

Richard Allen, M.D., professor of pediatrics and director of pediatric neurology at the University of Michigan Hospital, said that none of the 54 cases he has treated with a monitored diet during the first three years of life has resulted in mental retardation.

Dr. Allen said that about 30 children have been saved from a life of mental retardation since 1963, when PKU screening was first started in Michigan.

PKU is caused by the body's inability to dispose of phenylalanine, one of the 20 essential amino acids of which proteins are formed.

During the first three to five years of life, a high concentration of phenylalanine in the blood will interfere with the development of brain cells.

If the concentration is discovered within the first few weeks of life, the intake of phenylalanine can be cut by reducing or eliminating certain foods from a baby's diet. This brings the phenylalanine level in the blood down to normal.

Once the brain cells have developed — between three and five years of age — the child may be placed on a normal diet.

In 1965 a state law was passed making PKU testing mandatory within the first two weeks after birth. The blood test is now routine in hospital nurseries in Michigan.

An infant suspected of PKU is referred to the Clinical Research Unit at University Hospital where diagnostic tests are conducted. All costs in the Clinical Research Unit are borne by the National Institutes of Health, not the patients.

If the infant is diagnosed as having PKU, he is placed on a diet with a controlled amount of the phenylalanine in it. The diet is maintained for at least three years, Dr. Allen said.

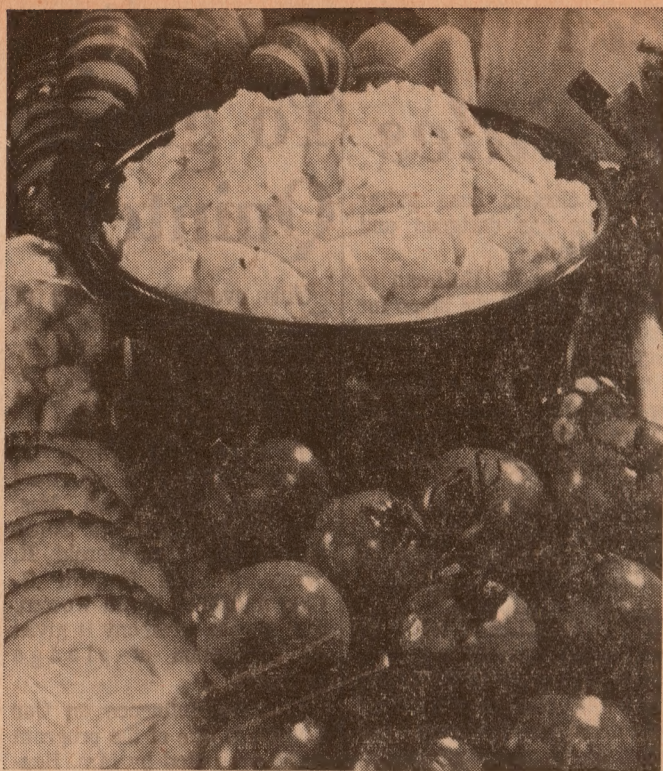

Dr. Allen said that for every positively diagnosed case there are about 15 suspected cases. Some of the "false positives" need no treatment and others are just temporarily in the range.

Since the beginning of the program, one confirmed case has been found for about every 20,000 infants tested, Allen said.

The bulk of the PKU testing is done in the Bureau of Laboratories of the State Health Department and in other state-approved laboratories.

The PKU testing program costs about $30,000 per year — an insignificant sum compared to the cost of maintaining a PKU mentally retarded individual in an institution for many years.

Dip idea comes from a lobster bisque soup. Serve it with fresh, crunchy vegetables for "dippers," such as cauliflower, little green onions, rounds of cucumbers or sticks of carrot, rutabaga or turnip.

Soup forms key To tangy dip

Looking for a conversation-starting party appetizer? A brand new dip, delicate and creamy, has a sea-sweet flavor to intrigue guests.

Serve the dip as a dinner-party appetizer or as a healthful snack for hungry teenagers when they descend en masse.

Dip-o'-the-Sea is easy to make with a can of new frozen condensed lobster langostino bisque. The soup combines lobster and langostino (small Chilean shellfish) with sweet country cream, milk, butter, and sauterne wine.

For dippers, use fresh crunchy vegetables; cauliflowerets, cherry tomatoes or radish fans, thick cucumber slices, carrot scoops, and little green onions. If you like, add dipper crackers and tortilla chips.

Other uses for the new frozen bisque are as a soup first course at dinner, or a sauce in seafood casseroles.

DIP-O'-THE-SEA

1 can (10 ounces) frozen condensed lobster langostino bisque soup

1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened

1 tablespoon grated onion

1 tablespoon chopped parsley

Generous dash garlic powder

Place soup in hot water for about 30 minutes to thaw. With electric mixer or rotary beater, gradually blend soup and other ingredients; beat just until smooth. Chill. Makes 2 cups dip.

Father termed Needed leader For children

Studies show that the best adjusted children come from the father-dominated family, Mrs. Louis Marshall, a psychologist at the Ypsilanti State Hospital, said when she spoke to the Ypsilanti Child Study Club last week.

Mrs. Marshall was guest speaker at the meeting at the home of Mrs. Ted Birdsall on Canyon Dr.

"The Disturbed" was her topic, and she spoke of children coming to the hospital as patients who "were at the end of the road."

A father-dominated family, is preferable, she explained, rather than Mother being boss when Father is not around. "There are fewer mentally disturbed children as long as parents are there and rules are defined," she said.

So many parents are afraid of making a mistake and so miss out on having fun with their children, she contended.

She said that parents are afraid to be parents, and that there is a lot of "over-lap" in the roles of being a parent.

Mrs. Marshall brought out the point that children can take a lot if they know that they are loved and belong in the family.

A discussion time followed Mrs. Marshall's talk.

Guests introduced were: Mrs. C.J. Cartwright, Mrs. Byron Wicker and Mrs. Nancy V. Quirk.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Carl Elliott and Mrs. Reed Maes.

All alterations Aren't possible

Here are some alterations that cannot be made on dresses: Because there isn't enough seam allowance, you cannot lower a waistline. On fabrics that mark, you cannot let out seams or darts because the original seams will show. You cannot let down a hem if a hemline fold has left a permanent mark. It is also difficult to change an armhole with a sleeve or to change shoulders or neckline if the dress has a collar.

Soapy water Whips clean-up

To clean an electric blender that has been used for making milkshakes, add several cups of water and two or three drops of dishwashing liquid. Turn the blender on for several seconds then pour the water out and rinse.

Brush cleaned

Daily brushing with a really clean brush is essential to beautiful hair. One zippy way to make sure your brush is always clean is to toss it into a sinkful of warm water and several capfuls of baby shampoo. Rinse thoroughly and let dry.

Style show set by club

A style show will be sponsored by the Ann Arbor Business and Professional Women's Club at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at Jacobson's in Ann Arbor.

The show, "Up, Up and Away" will feature spring fashions in various age groups.

Tickets available from Mrs. Hazard Merkle at 971-8144, or the door, will benefit a scholarship for a 1969 Ann Arbor High School graduate.

African families aided

KARIBA, Rhodesia (AP) — Batonka girls no longer have their teeth knocked out at puberty. They go to school instead, and their parents are learning to use soap powder and bottled soft drinks.

These outward signs of a social revolution in one of Rhodesia's most primitive African tribes were triggered by the building of a dam holding back the world's largest man-made lake.

Ten years ago, the Batonka still eked out a primitive subsistence growing crops and raising cattle on the banks of the Zambezi river, the country's remote northern border with Zambia. River floods swept their crops and tsetse flies ravaged their cattle.

When the Zambezi started filling behind the massive Kariba, dam wall 17,500 Batonka were moved to a new environment where food and water are relatively plentiful. In healthier surroundings, the tribe rapidly increased its numbers. The 7,000 square mile Binga district which has 140 miles of lake shore now houses 31,000 Batonka.

General development work in the area, road construction and a bush clearing program provided the tribesmen with paid employment for the first time. With money to spend, they learned the advantages of a cash economy.

Ten years ago there were no Batonka children at school.

AN ASTRONAUT'S wife can have a career, too. Mrs. Schweickart instructs a class in music at a private school near the Space Center, teaching the preschoolers twice weekly.

Senior Citizens fete St. Patrick; to see slides

A St. Patrick's program was presented by the group of senior citizens, for the 55 members at the potluck dinner meeting Monday afternoon at the Senior Citizens Center.

Irish jokes were featured, with a master of ceremonies quipping and introducing others. A soft shoe dance, group singing and instrumental music were also part of the program.

Emcee was Clayton Harris, and those doing monologues were Clifford Gates, and Mrs. Amy Seymour, center director. The soft shoe dance was by Carl Mosher. The center's musical trio played, with Gaylord Richardson at the violin, Murray O'Neil, at the piano, and Herman Spicer at the electric bass guitar which he has designed and built himself.

Mrs. Irvin W. Huffman of Belleville played the piano for group songs led by Mrs. Seymour.

The potluck dinner at noon preceded the program. And the afternoon's activity was rounded out by dancing and cards.

The club has three potluck's a month, one on Saturday, one for a Thursday business meeting and the other on a specially chosen date.

A social security representative, will come to the Senior Citizen Center to answer questions on Medicare and Medicaid tomorrow morning.

He will be on hand from 9 to 11 a.m.

The regular get-together starts at 1 p.m., tomorrow, and at 3 p.m. Mr. Adolf Gress will show his pictures of Germany and talk on his native land.

On Saturday, a potluck dinner is planned, with Roy Strohl talking on the Hawaiian trip that the Senior Citizen Society of Michigan has just completed. He was an assistant tour supervisor.

It's mainly About people

Mrs. Kenneth D. Croff, Sr., Larry Marks, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Croff, Jr., and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Croff and family returned this week from Petoskey where they attended the funeral of the senior Mrs. Croff's father, Grover Lybarker.

Sorority To greet Quintet

This evening's meeting of Kappa Eta chapter of Beta Sigma Phi will come to order at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Howard G. Carr, 330 E. Cross St.

President Mrs. Henry L. Stevens will bestow the ritual of jewels degree on Mrs. Maurice J. Eckel, Mrs. Zoran Guberich, Mrs. Gerald E. Woolpert, Mrs. Howard G. Carr and Miss Sarah Wooten. The formal ceremony is given on completion of pledge training.

"Music's Influence on Our Lives", is title of the program to be presented by Mrs. Henry L. Stevens and which will comprise a musical demonstration.

The ways and means chairman, Mrs. George D. Richards, has announced that the sorority rummage sale held March 8, at the former Doll House was very successful. During tonight's business meeting, plans will be discussed for a summer sale, possibly at the same location.

Last Saturday, rushes and their husbands were honored at a party. The event was a treasure hunt, car rally followed by a smorgasbord and games at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Stevens. The social committee is planning another "fun night" tentatively scheduled for April 19, on the theme, "Casino Royal."

Decorate home As you choose New TV center

NEW YORK (AP) — Buying a second television set can turn out a good deal like buying a second car in a family that has teen-agers. Not only does Dad have one; now the kids do, too.

But Mom can have fun with the new TV by picking it out to satisfy her decorating instincts.

In choosing the set, first decide about the picture size—23 inch, 21 inch, 18. Should it be black and white or color?

Should it have a hutch or breakfast design for displaying favorite china or should it have doors to disguise it as a sideboard when not in use?

Should the new set be portable or standard and if standard should it be TV only or should it also be a home entertainment center including stereo, AM-FM radio, jack for tape cassette player and other tape equipment?

Now you can add a scanner for projecting home color slides through the color picture tube while recording narration of the slides onto a cassette tape. During future showings, the cassette tape will play itself and automatically change the slides to synchronize it.

If Dads checkbook settles all of these questions, Mom still has a choice of style.

Most French Provincial has cabriole legs that swell out at the "knees and in at the ankles."

The provincial craftsmen of Italy simplified the elaborate furniture of the cities—their design today is called Italian Provincial. It's plainer than the French counterpart and can be used well with French and other provincial styles, as well as with contemporary. It's a good style for persons who like the provincial idea but prefer a more classic design—a less definite "mood" than the other provincial styles have.

Mediterranean influence is strong in the United States at present. Mediterranean includes such Moorish influences as elaborately carved wood surfaces, ornate metal mounts and accents of bright red or green fabric or leather. Decorators combine it with Spanish Provincial, Contemporary and Oriental furnishings.

Early American, which always looks warm as a hearth, blends happily with informal provincial pieces, particularly French.

Contemporary design represents simplified adaptations of classic and traditional designs. It is especially appealing for beauty of wood and finish and clean-lined design.

The biggest influence in Contemporary is Scandinavian. The most striking feature of Scandinavian design, as it applies to television sets, is the graceful, slightly played base.

TV set cabinets come in French Provincial, Italian Provincial, Mediterranean, Early American, Contemporary and Scandinavian—and some companies have an even broader range of styles. Which to choose?

Well, you don't have to stick to the design of your living room. If everything you own is Early American, but you think one more item in that style would be too much, try to visualize a French Provincial television set in the room.

If you plug the openings of chocolate syrup cans and evaporated milk containers with a ball of aluminum foil, the contents will stay fresh for a longer period of time.

Teen-agers and drugs:

Once hooked, outside help needed

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

If youngsters do become "hooked" or dependent upon mind-influencing drugs, what then?

By that time, authorities advise, the problem is usually beyond the parents' ability to handle it alone.

"Some kind of expert counseling is called for," says Dr. Kenneth Keniston of Yale University.

It could be a family friend, a school counselor, a minister, a physician, not necessarily a psychologist or psychiatrist.

The series "What you should know about drugs and narcotics" is available in booklet form at The Press at 20 E. Michigan Ave. Bring in $1 and pick up the book, or send $1 plus 15 cents for mailing and handling to DRUGS, in care of The Press.

"Don't regard it as a sign of moral corruption, but rather as something being wrong in their lives," he adds.

Dr. Dana L. Farnsworth of Harvard suggests telling them that "you will not condone what they are doing, but that you will help them all you can, and stand by them."

A college counselor adds: In interviews with college youths using drugs in a self-destructive way, "it was impressive how often drugs had been 'used' to inform parents, teachers and others that the individual desperately needed help."

The young tend to copy the ideas, values, beliefs—and also prejudices—of parents, and so parents should set good examples to follow.

John Finlator, associate director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs remarks: "It's dangerous for adults to answer the young person who says, 'I don't know why people get excited when I use drugs—my old man's been hung up on martinis for years.'"

"Kids tend to tell the truth and mirror what we don't want to see in ourselves," says Dr. Morris E. Chafetz, Harvard Medical School psychiatrist.

"We want to separate pot and alcohol, but we are of the generation that abuses so many drugs."

The way parents behave and talk can seem hypocritical at times to youngsters, who may then look upon mind-influencing drugs as a way of escaping hypocrisy.

Preaching Won't Do
Many adults have "made their peace" with alcohol and tobacco and tranquilizing drugs, but give a flat No to any experimentation with marijuana or fail to give cogent reasons for youths not to try it, points out a psychiatrist. This seems unreasonable to many young people.

Parents are not likely to make big points with their children if they simply say, "Wait till you've been through what I've been through in life—then you'll understand." That, says one physician, isn't going to be a very impressive argument if it seems to the youngsters that the parents' lives, jobs or marriages are somewhat miserable.

"Give kids a healthy pattern to follow, and start it early," a psychiatrist suggests. "When and if it ever comes to a real debate over whether a child has a right to do something, it is usually too late."

3 persons per mile

There are only three persons per square mile in Idaho, the Census Bureau has disclosed.

In the long run, says Dr. Keniston, "those of us who are critical of student drug abuse must demonstrate to our students that there are better and more lasting ways to experience the fullness, the depth, the variety and the richness of life than that of ingesting psychoactive chemicals."

Last presidential election year, with many young people actively campaigning for candidates of their choice, raised the question whether interest in national campaigns or other issues might replace pots and pills, suggests Dr. Donald B. Louria of New York City.

The point, he says, is that "if you want to cure the drug problem, the name of the game is commitment" to something else.

Actions to spread education about drugs are sprouting across the country.

"The drug abuse problem concerns all of us; it is national in scope," says Finlator. "But it is not a national problem so much as it is a local problem, in the community, in the school and in the home. Here is the place where education has to be done."

"It would be best," he adds, "if our schools developed programs teaching respect for drugs in general, or in particular. But if a high school, for example, suddenly puts on a program on drug abuse only, youngsters will laugh at it. The idea of respect for drugs should be developed in courses or classes in general health education."

Factual Information Needed

The new Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs represents a merger last year of the Bureau of Drug Abuse Control, which Finlator headed, and the federal Bureau of Narcotics headed by Henry Giordano. John E. Ingersoll is the director.

Both of the formerly separate bureaus have distributed millions of copies of pamphlets and literature on various aspects of drug use and abuse, and the new Bureau continues to do so.

It lists a variety of motion pictures that are available for public showing.

"Today's youth demands accurate, factual, unprejudiced information, and when given such information honestly and directly, in my opinion they respond sensibly," says Dr. Keniston and others.

In many communities, there are increasing efforts to spread information about dangerous drugs. The pattern varies broadly.

In some places, parents organize special school courses, or one-day assemblies. Elsewhere, school personnel take the initiative.

Community organizations and service clubs sponsor other efforts. At least one community group also seeks "to bring pressure on local government, civic organizations, school boards, police departments and the like to act in solving the problem."

Numerous colleges and universities are initiating special educational programs about mind-influencing drugs, and other drugs.

"To be effective, a preventive educational effort must be carefully tailored to specific population groups, and must be based on the best educational and scientific footing," says Dr. Stanley Yolles, director of the National Institute of Mental Health. "Students are suspicious of information supplied by 'official sources.' They want authoritative information, and to know where it comes from."

Education as to the ill effects of drug abuse has had some effect even in the ghettos," says David Gottlieb of Pennsylvania State University.

"Controlled studies indicate that even deprived youngsters who have had meaningful experience with the dangers of addiction are fearful of and reluctant to fool around with heroin," he says. "The more advantaged youngsters seem sufficiently knowledgeable about the more potent drugs, at least in-tially, and will steer clear of them. Education given, however, is not necessarily information accepted."

Repeatedly, people who have abused dangerous drugs make one significant point:

They say they might not have become involved if they had had factual knowledge beforehand, particularly when curiosity and thrill-seeking were the main motives for taking such drugs in the first place.

LENTEN GUIDEPOSTS

'Goodbye, dad'

By HAROLD SHERMAN

Businessman, Mountain View, Arkansas

"Harold, you've been home from the service six weeks now. Don't you think it's about time you looked for a job and found something you want to do in life?"

"I don't feel like going to work yet," I retorted. "Besides, I don't know what I want to do."

SHERMAN

Like many young men of that day, or today, I had returned from service in World War I disturbed and unsettled in mind. I had no desire to battle for my place in the world. What was the rush, anyway? Why was Dad pushing me?

One night when he came home from the store and saw me lounging on the front porch, Dad said, "Still doing nothing?"

"That's right!" I rejoined.

"Have you been thinking about what you might like?" he asked.

"Yes, but there's nothing in this town that appeals to me," I answered.

Dad looked at me for a long moment and then said, "Well, I guess, if that's the case, you'll have to leave town to find what does appeal."

A slap in the face could not have hurt me as much. Dad was really trying to get rid of me.

"All right," I snapped. "I'll get out! I'll go to Detroit and get work with Henry Ford."

"That's a good idea," said Dad in his typically quiet way. "When would you like to go?"

"Tomorrow morning!" I blazed. "The six o'clock train."

Mother cried. She said I didn't have to go that soon, that Dad hadn't meant it that way.

When I arose before sunrise and went downstairs with my bag, I found Mother and Dad already up and Mother had set a hot meal on the table. There were freshly baked breakfast rolls made only for special occasions.

But I steeled myself against any show of feeling. We ate in almost complete silence. I could see that Mother was close to tears.

Dad had his eyes on the time and said, "We'd better get started. We've just time to walk it."

At the corner, as we were about to turn out of sight of the old home, I looked back. There in the distance was the little figure of my mother. She raised her apron and waved it. Then I saw her turn to go into the house, the apron raised to her eyes.

Oh, well, I thought, when Dad sees how Mother is taking it maybe he'll regret his words.

We walked the long 10 blocks past familiar scenes I was so soon to leave behind. When we got to the station, Dad hurried into the depot ahead of me and bought my ticket. The train was already in the station.

"Here you are," said Dad, and stuffed the ticket in my pocket. Then he handed me a $10 bill.

"No thanks," I said, pushing it away. "Keep your money — I don't need it."

The train whistle sounded. I picked up my bag and got ready to mount the steps onto the platform of the rear coach.

"Goodbye, Dad," I said with a quick handshake. My jaws, I know, were set tight with resolve not to show any feeling.

"Goodbye, Harold," said Dad. "Write and keep Mother and me informed. If we can help..."

I didn't answer. I was up the steps and into the coach where I savagely shoved my suitcase in an overhead rack and dropped down in a seat. Came the final whistle, the air brakes wheezed, and the train, with a jerk, started to move.

All of a sudden I was hit with a shock reaction. A great surge of remorse came over me and I jumped up and rushed out onto the rear platform of the train, my eyes seeking out my father. And there he was, walking along a sidewalk beside the tracks.

"Dad, Hi, Dad!" I called, and waved.

But he did not hear me; he did not see me. His head was bowed, and I could tell that Dad was doing something I had never seen him do through all the experiences our family had endured. He was sobbing.

"Dad," I cried, with the train picking up speed. "Oh, Dad!"

It was approaching the bend and Dad would soon be out of sight. But, no, he never raised his head. After all these years as I recall this scene, my eyes dim with tears.

How I wish I could have relived this experience! How I wish I could have realized, as I did later, that Dad had felt called upon to do what is perhaps one of the most difficult things any parent can ever feel compelled to do. He had to force me, as gently but as persistently as possible, to get out on my own.

It wasn't many months, after my employment at the Ford Motor Company in Highland Park, Detroit, that another reason for Dad's action was revealed. For some time he had been suffering from severe headaches. An examination disclosed a tumor on the brain.

It was now obvious that Dad had known something serious was wrong and had wanted me, the eldest son, to be prepared not only to take care of myself but to assume a greater family responsibility.

I thank God every night for my wonderful parents. My hope is that other sons and daughters of today will understand when their time comes to leave home, that their fathers and mothers do not love them any less because they are willing, and even anxious, for their own good, to let them go.

Senate ponders 9 per cent mortgage interest ceiling

LANSING (AP)—A bill boosting the ceiling on home mortgage loan interest rates from 7 to 9 per cent was moved into position for final vote Tuesday after stormy debate on the Senate floor.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Gilbert Bursley, R-Ann Arbor, brought cries of "outrageous" from opponents.

The bill, which concerns first mortgages on homes, also would allow a homeowner to refinance his mortgage at a later date, when interest rates were more favorable, without penalty.

A move to set the ceiling at 7½ per cent was defeated.

"You're not voting a higher interest rate," Bursley told colleagues. "You're only raising the ceiling. "If you do not approve this," he added, "you're going to have a drastic drop in building."

Bursley cited the 7½ per cent interest banks now charge their best customers because of a recent ruling by the Federal Reserve Board in raising the prime interest rate. He added that the banks are "straightjacketed" by present-day interest rates.

Bursley said 9 per cent would be "realistic."

"Even 8 per cent would be outrageous," countered Sen. Roger Craig, D-Dearborn.

"Nine per cent would be usury on usury."

"Try and keep the rates down," urged Senate Minority Leader Sander Levin, D-Berkley. "It's argued that ceilings are academic anyway — that they don't mean anything. If that's true," he said, "why not abolish the ceiling altogether?"

Sen. John Bowman, D-Roseville, said he felt a 7½ per cent ceiling would be "completely adequate."

"If it isn't and we find out we are in trouble, we can amend the law later," he said. "But I would feel a lot safer going back to my district with a 7½ per cent ceiling."

Sen. George Kuhn, R-Birmingham, maintained that the building industry could face a "crisis" if the ceiling were not increased. "We could have a real serious recession," he said.

Tiger rookie sharp In loss to Phillies

LAKELAND, Fla. (AP) — Working out with the Detroit Tigers this spring is a change of pace for Mike Kilkenny, and if the 24-year-old lefthander succeeds in winning a spot as relief pitcher his change-up will play no small part.

Kilkenny pitched three innings of no-hit ball against the Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday as the World Champion Tigers lost 6-2 in exhibition baseball.

Kilkenny walked two men in his three-inning stint, and struck two out, both of them on change-of-pace pitches.

"I used to change up a lot late last year when I was pitching with Toledo," Kilkenny said. "Then I got it down pat in winter ball this year."

Kilkenny started last season with Montgomery in the Class AA Southern League, but was called up to Toledo near the end of the season, where he sported a 1.2 earned run average as a reliever.

The 6-foot-4 southpaw said he had been aided in his overarm delivery by pitching coach Johnny Sain, catcher Bill Freehan and catching coach Hal Naragon.

"He's improving all along," said manager Mayo Smith. "His fast ball's getting better velocity-wise and he threw some good changes."

One of Kilkenny's two strikeouts was suffered by Richie Allen, who had slammed a solo home run in the third inning on a pitch served up by last season's 31-game winner Denny McLain.

McLain, given the loss in the exhibition season record book, also was tagged for a three-run blast by Bill White, which highlighted the five-run second inning for the Phillies.

The only noise the Tigers could manage with their bats was in the fourth inning when Jim Northrup doubled home Norm Cash and Dick Tracewski knocked in Willie Horton.

Kilkenny is accorded a good chance of making the team, filling the spot left when lefty reliever Jon Warden was drafted in the American League expansion by Kansas City.

Bullets earn share of title With win over Seattle

By the Associated Press

Coach Gene Shue of the Baltimore Bullets isn't conceding a thing—to the Baltimore Bullets.

Not even after the Bullets whipped Seattle 130-120 Tuesday night and clinched at least a tie for the National Basketball Association's Eastern Division championship.

"When we win one more game I'll predict we're going to win the title," Shue said. "We've got a tough schedule ahead."

The clinching can come tonight if the Bullets win at New York or the second-place Philadelphia 76ers lose to Seattle at home.

In other Tuesday night games, Western Division champion Los Angeles nipped Chicago 93-92, San Diego crushed Milwaukee 128-108 and Atlanta drubbed San Francisco 128-115.

By winning, Baltimore moved 3½ games ahead of idle Philadelphia. The Bullets have four games left, Philadelphia three.

Kevin Loughery paced the Bullets with 32 points and scored 11 of their last 22 after Seattle had pulled to within 108-101. Ray Scott added 22 and Earl Monroe 14 to pass the 2,000-point mark.

The SuperSonics were eliminated from the Western Division playoff scramble despite 26 points by Len Wilkens, 22 by John Tresvant and 21 by Art Harris.

Los Angeles' triumph over Chicago just about killed the Bulls' playoff hopes, dropping them 2½ games behind San Diego in the battle for fourth place. Rookie Tom Boerwinkle had a chance to keep it going but missed three free throws with four seconds left.

The Bulls led by five points with four minutes left but Jerry West and Bill Hewitt shot the Lakers into the lead. West's 30 points led the winners while Bob Boozer had 27 for Chicago.

San Diego broke open a tight game by outscoring Milwaukee 35-19 in the final period. Don Kojis took game scoring honors with 34 points. Jon McGlocklin netted 25 for the losing Bucks.

Atlanta blew a 13-point halftime lead but pulled away from San Francisco with a 34-21 fourth quarter. Jeff Mullins pumped in 28 points for the Warriors.

Santa Clara Leads poll In baseball

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Un-defeated Santa Clara was ranked No. 1 in the first poll of the 1969 collegiate baseball season Wednesday by the Collegiate Baseball newspaper.

The Broncos have won six games, plus three others against non-college teams. Southern California was No. 2, followed by Southern Illinois, Arizona State and Arizona.

Rounding out to top 10 were Texas, Oklahoma State, Minnesota, Florida State and St. Johns, N.Y.

The second 10, in order: Stanford, Harvard, Michigan, Michigan State, New York U., Ohio State, Florida, Western Michigan and Ohio U.

Meeting set

All organizations interested in placing a team in the city Recreation and Church softball league are urged to attend a meeting this Thursday evening, March 20th, at 7:30 at the Ypsilanti Recreation Office, 214 North Huron Street in Ypsilanti.

Kansas State grad wins Rain-delayed Monsanto golf

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — Jim Colbert played his old shots as he became golf's newest champion but, for the former Kansas State football player, the waiting game was the hardest.

Colbert's first victory in four years on the pro circuit came in Tuesday's rain-delayed final round of the $100,000 Monsanto Open where he finished two strokes ahead of Deane Beman for a 72-hole total of 267.

The balding, boyish-looking 28-year-old from Overland Park, Kan., who held a one-stroke lead after 54 holes Saturday, sat in his motel for two days playing bridge and putting on the rug before finally teeing off into the teeth of a 35-mile an hour wind in the finale.

"Each morning I'd look out the window and see the rain," he said. "I was really wanting to get out there and play."

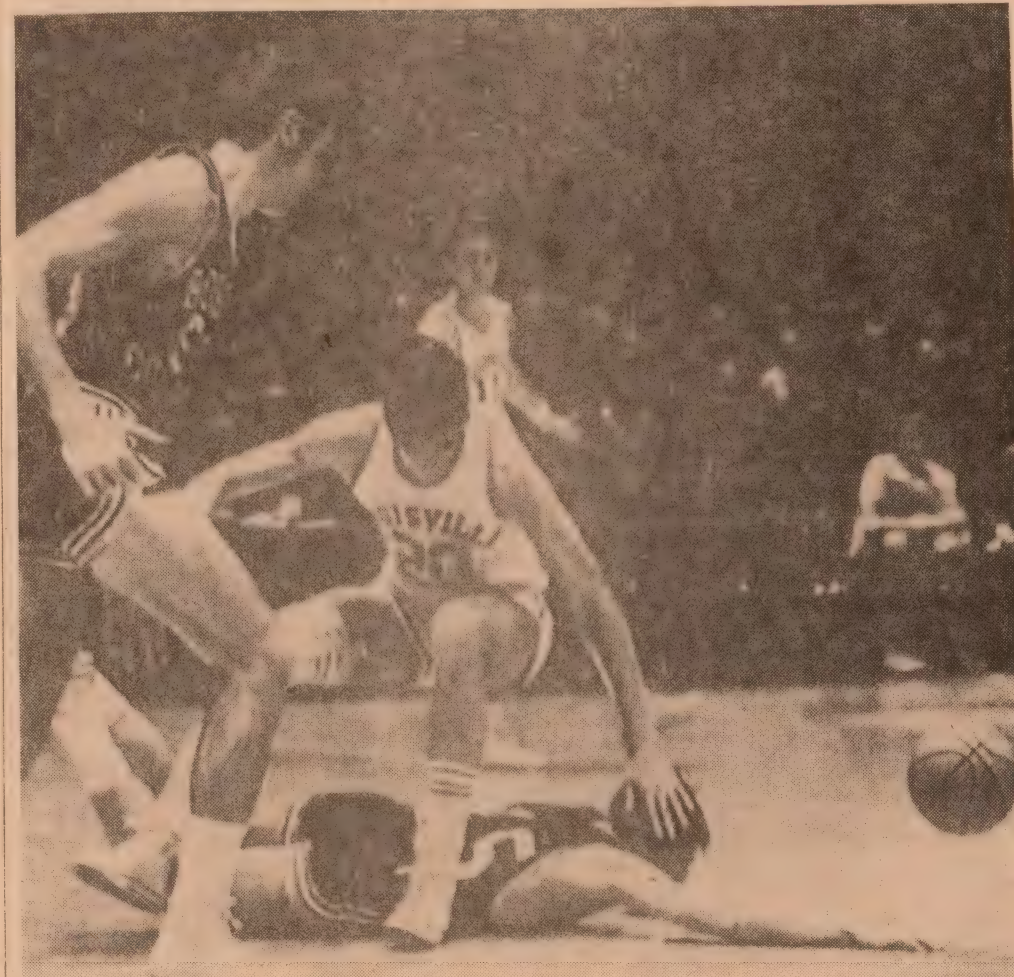

"I had butterflies on the first tee because we had waited so long."

Monsanto's $20,000 first place prize boosted Colbert's 1969 earnings to more than $23,000.

His best previous career finish had been a third in Jacksonville in 1967, when he won more than $25,000. He won only half that amount last year.

The former life insurance agent built up a three-stroke lead over Beman after the 11th hole. Colbert faltered only once — when he bogeyed the par 5 12th.

Colbert, who shot a final round 67, also shook off a late bid by Lee Trevino, who matched Beman's 68. Ray Floyd was five shots back of Colbert at 272. Gary Player, Larry Hinson and Tommy Aaron were next at 275.

The shot heard around town

Ypsilanti High's Joe Frye puts up the second of his two free throws which tied Saturday night's regional championship game with Ann Arbor Huron at 50-50. The Braves, the visiting team, went on to win the game in overtime, resulting in the huge Tuesday crowd trying to get tickets for tonight's quarterfinal game against East Lansing at Jackson Parkside. According to Ypsilanti High Athletic Director Bob Moffet, they sold nearly 2,000 tickets by 5 p.m. yesterday.

Braves play East Lansing:

Quarterfinal games tonight

By the Associated Press

Michigan high school basketball has seen a lot of brother acts, but never before have two coaching brothers managed to get their teams into the state quarterfinals in the same year.

For Sam and Lefty Franz, coaches at Saginaw St. Stephens and Bay City All Saints, that's only one of two unique aspects to the 1969 season. The other is that for the first time they could pull for each other all the time, never trying to beat each other.

Sam, who has been coach at St. Stephen for three years after spending 18 years at nearby St. Mary, and Lefty—who coached at Bay City St. Stanislaus for 16 years before it merged with two other schools and formed the class B Bay City All Saints — face two of the toughest assignments in tonight's quarterfinal round.

St. Stephen, unbeaten at 20-0 and ranked second among the state's class C powers, faces Manistee Catholic Central, which is riding an 18-game win streak, while All Saints, rated No. 10 in class B, meets sixth ranked Orchard Lake West Bloomfield.

A third Franz brother recently gave up coaching after three years at Saginaw St. Andrew. "Don's the only smart one in the family," says the 49-year-old Sam, but friends don't take him seriously.

They do take him seriously when he says he's worried about tonight's game at Mount Pleasant. "All I can do is say an undefeated team is sort of a hex," he said. "But I hope we can keep it going at least at East Lansing."

Another kind of challenge is face by brother Lefty, 45, at Grand Blanc. He and West Bloomfield coach Art Paddy were the best of buddies when Paddy coached Bay City Central back in the 1950's.

Their teams—one class A and one class C—never played, but they scrimmaged regularly. Lefty saw his old friend for the first time in eight years last Saturday when he high-tailed it down the freeway to watch West Bloomfield win its regional title.

After a brief friendly reunion, the pair will be going full-blast after each other tonight.

If Lefty gets beyond the quarterfinal, it will be the first. Though he's won ten district titles and one regional in 17 years of coaching in the Saginaw Valley, piling up a 212-106 record Parochial League, he's never gotten to the final foursome in East Lansing.

Other important games feature No. 3 East Lansing; No. 7 Detroit Mumford against unranked surprise team Detroit Southwestern; top-ranked Class B powerhouse River Rouge against Holt; and No. 10 Class B team Menominee, with four starters back from last year's contender, against up-and-coming Oscoda.

Meet tomorrow

The meeting for Little League managers, and any person interested in baseball coaching, will be at 7 p.m. at Bowen arena tomorrow, rather than March 27 as originally scheduled. Eastern Michigan Baseball Coach Ron Oestrike announced this morning.

Army '5' Advances To semi's

NEW YORK (AP) — After every surprising basketball victory, Coach Bobby Knight of Army has to defend his rugged Cadets against critics who label them "butchers, hackers and slayers."

But the Cadets looked like a bunch of tip-toeing Lord Fauntleroyes Tuesday night compared to the scrap between Boston College and Louisville in Madison Square Garden.

After the Cadets once again used their hard-working defense for a methodically unexciting 59-45 upset over South Carolina in the quarterfinals of the National Invitational Tournament, BC and Louisville did the slapping, slashing and even fighting before BC staggered away with an 88-83 triumph.

The victories matched Army and the Eagles in Thursday night's semifinals, with Monday night's winners, Temple and Tennessee, clashing in the other game. The final is Saturday afternoon.

Court turns down DST recount appeal

LANSING (AP) — The State Appeals Court denied yesterday an attempt to reject the vote recount in which Daylight Saving Time was turned down in Michigan.

The court action has the effect of keeping Michigan on Eastern Standard Time—unless any subsequent court action is successful.

In the opinion issued without comment by the judges, the Appeals Court cited a "lack of merit in the grounds presented" against the State Board of Censors' action in certifying the vote recount that defeated Daylight Time.

The Daylight Saving Time proposal was defeated by a narrow margin after the unofficial tally indicated it had been approved by the voters. The defeat was upheld after a recount.

Ronald Dzierbicki, clerk of the court, said the attempt to upset certification of the recount vote was made by Steven Servaas and Herbert Ranta, two law students from Grand Rapids.

The court clerk said the students still could take the issue to the State Supreme Court. The plaintiffs raised three main issues in their argument, contending:

1—Voters were misled on the issue because the wording of the proposal and certain press releases by the secretary of state's office were contradictory.

2—When the issue was placed on the ballot, the statement of purpose and the wording of the issue to be voted on were contradictory.

3—The statement of the issue as placed on the ballot was not complete.

The issue as stated on the ballot read: "Shall the State of Michigan observe Daylight Saving Time?"

The objectors claimed this was misleading, Dzierbicki said, contending this gave voters the impression they were being asked to put the state on Daylight Saving Time for the entire year.

The objectors said the exact dates proposed for Daylight Saving Time should have been on the ballot.

Rep. Thomas Brown, R-Lansing, is sponsoring a bill asking the Legislature to overrule the vote of the people and put the state on fast time.

Chances of success for his measure are thought to be slim since the popular vote on the issue was nearly 50-50 and it would take a two thirds majority vote by both houses for passage.

U-M school gets Research grant

ANN ARBOR — The University of Michigan's School of Public Health has received a three-year federal research grant of $177,715 to study health insurance plans and operations.

The program will be directed by Max Shain, associate professor of medical care organization, and research associate Grover Wirick Jr.

Shain said the program was inspired by Blue Cross' recent change from a community-rated premium system to a system of experience ratings.

Tighter 'teen rules' Sought for Westland

WESTLAND — A number of provisions that would "tighten up" the city's ordinance on teen-age nightclubs were submitted to City Attorney John Nellis Monday night by councilman Virgil Gagnon on behalf of a new committee set up to study the teen club problems.

Complaining of excessive noise, traffic and possible illegal behavior have been voiced by many adults in the community in recent weeks, the latest in a continuing series of attacks on the teen club.

All of this has arisen despite repeated meetings with the teen club management in an effort to iron out the mutual problems of the club owners and the city.

Named to the new committee with Gagnon were Paul Tavara, Mrs. Joseph Esper and Melvin Todie who lives behind the Crow's Nest West Teen Club at Joy and Haller Rds. Todie recently attempted to get city action because excessive noise he said was disturbing the use of his property.

"While it's true I did ask for a change because I was dissatisfied with being the office manager..."

Proposed planner Rejected 3rd time

WESTLAND — The luck of the Irish didn't do its proper work Monday night for Tom Loughlin of 520 N. Hawthorne St., who was turned down for the third time for a seat on the City Planning Commission.

Mayor Thomas H. Brown submitted Loughlin's name to the City Council for approval Monday night, along with a resume of Loughlin's civic and church activities which council President Charles McIlhargey ordered read at the meeting.

Absent was the name of Planning Commissioner Paul Krarup who was twice before vetoed along with Loughlin by the council. But Krarup continues to sit on the commission despite his expired term until a successor is named.

Mayor Brown has appeared willing to let Krarup sit on the commission by virtue of the technicality rather than force another council showdown.

The vote on Loughlin's nomination was 4 to 2 with Councilman Charles McKinney absent. Opposing the approval were McIlhargey, councilmen Mrs. Justine Barnes, Virgil Gagnon and Robert Wagner. In favor of approval were councilmen Henry Lundquist and John Marks.

Following the vote Lundquist said he had continued his favorable voting on Loughlin's appointment (he supported him twice before) because he felt the resume submitted by the Mayor showed Loughlin to be well qualified for the planning post. Loughlin's 8-year background in Westland and Macomb Townships includes work on the study and campaign for cityhood and many activities at St. Richard's Parish. He was also connected with the Camp Macomb Spotlight that "encouraged and supported" candidates for election to local offices.

Councilman Gagnon on the opposing side said he was opposed to having the mayor re-submit the same name after the council had twice turned it down. Gagnon said he thought it was out of line for anyone to expect the council to reverse itself.

Mrs. Barnes said the move was a big political ploy. "I'm sick of it," she said.

The Planning Commission still has only eight of its full 9-man strength. One of whom is Krarup. Much discussion of the mayor-council stalemate arose when the commission began to tie on some important votes recently.

CAMPERS: INSURE AND FINANCE YOUR VEHICLES AT AAA

INSURE your vehicle through the Exchange at Triple-A's Outdoor Living Package of broader and better comprehensive and collision coverage on owned, rented or borrowed motor homes, campers and trailers. For example, camper units on pickup trucks insured through the Exchange are covered up to $500 if owned by the insured. Additional coverage to insure full value can be purchased from the Exchange. If the camper, motor home or trailer is borrowed or rented for 30 days or less, the units are automatically covered up to full value.

FINANCE your new recreational vehicle with AAA Member-Loan and save money, compared to usual bank rates. Available at all 57 Auto Club offices, through a special arrangement with several leading Michigan banks, MemberLoan is one of the most valuable benefits of Triple-A membership. MemberLoan helps AAA members save money on cars, boats and snowmobiles, too.

U-M music Series set For 69-70

Twenty-two international presentations have been scheduled for the 1969-70 season of the University of Michigan Musical Society series.

Now in its 91st year, the events are grouped in three individual concert series including dance, chamber arts and choral union programs.

A performance by the New York Philharmonic will open the Choral Union Series on Sept. 21. Other programs will feature pianist Misha Dister, the Orchestra of L'Accademia Di Santa Cecilia from Rome, the Royal Choral Society and Players from London; the Osipov Balalaika Orchestra; the NKK Symphony Orchestra; soprano Joan Sutherland and pianist Richard Bonyage; pianist Vladimir Ashkenazy; the Canadian Opera Company's production of "Barber of Seville" and guitarist Andres Segovia.

The Dance Series, which opens Oct. 17, will include performances by the National Ballet of Canada, the Danzas Venezuela, the American Ballet Theater, the Jose Limon Dance Company and the Nikolais Dance Company. Lecture-demonstrations in connection with the last two events will be open free to series ticket holders.

The 1969-70 season of the Chamber Art Series will begin on Oct. 12 with the Madrigal from Bucharest. The Prague Chamber Orchestra, violinist Franco Gulli and pianist Enrico Cavallo, the New York Pro Musica, Music from Marlboro, flutist Jean-Pierre Rampal and the Phakavali Dancers from Bangkok will complete the concert series.

Season tickets for the three series are currently being filled at the University Musical Society, Burton Tower, Ann Arbor. They may be ordered by mail or picked up in person at the Burton Tower Office.

YOUR HEALTH:

Most in flight fears
Are unfounded ones

By DR. LESTER COLEMAN
The problem of taking short or long flights in pressurized airplanes is frequently an area of discussion between patients and doctors. Concern over whether to fly or not because of a relatively minor health problem may be hiding some of the more basic fears about the experience. Some of these fears are disproportionate to reality. I have often wondered why airlines pretend that these fears do not exist and can be avoided by neglecting them. Concentration on the food that is served and the hemline of the stewardesses' skirt can hardly assuage the anxieties of elderly flyers.

airplanes as compared to the automobiles they take for granted. The intensive inspection of the airplane as compared to the neglect we give our autos may be a great source of comfort.

From the medical point of view, there are few reasons why people of all ages should not fly. In general, severe colds, infections of the sinuses, infection of the ears in an acute phase are reasons why flying is inadvisable. There are a few major restrictions to flying. Chronic heart disease, chronic bronchitis, emphysema, high blood pressure and severe anemia are some of the major reasons why doctors may want to restrict air travel. Even with these conditions, the doctor evaluates each individual case, treats it and then may allow flying. Pregnancy past the seventh month may restrict some women unless specific permission is given by their doctor. Highly tense and emotionally upset people can be given mild sedatives to allay their anxiety. Any person with a chronic ailment should have a letter from his doctor in which he will outline any special need his patient might have while on board the plane. The crew can then be alerted and prepared for any situation that might arise.

Speaking of your health: Hoarseness is nature's cry to be recognized. If it lasts more than two weeks, the vocal cords must be examined.

Dr. Coleman welcomes letters from readers, and, while he cannot undertake to answer each one, he will use questions in his column whenever possible and when they are of general interest. Address your letters to Dr. Coleman in care of The Press.

DEAR ABBY:

Widow debates the idea
Of moving in with beau

By ABIGALE VAN BUREN
DEAR ABBY: I am 52 and I have been keeping fairly steady company with a man who is 60. He's very considerate, generous, and I certainly appreciate his company, after having been a lonely widow for four years.

He asked me if I would like to move in and keep house for him so we can find out if we are "compatible" before trying marriage. He says there is nothing wrong with it at our ages.

I refused. Was I foolish? Lately I have been reconsidering his proposition. I don't enjoy being alone. He has money and could get plenty of other women on his terms.

Can you help me come to a decision? Lexington Lady.

DEAR LADY: I say, let some other woman have the pleasure of "moving in" with him to find out if she is "compatible." Respectable couples of all ages still marry before they live together. If you want to be a "housekeeper" with sleep-in privileges, it's up to you.

DEAR ABBY: My father-in-law likes to tell about the only time in his life he made a mistake, and that was when he "thought" he was wrong, and then found out he wasn't.

My former roommate was a public health nurse in San Francisco, and her job was to call on welfare cases to see if the children were properly fed and clothed. She told me (and there was no reason for her to lie) that about half the children were adequately cared for, but she usually found plenty of cigarets, beer and liquor in the home, and oftentimes a man in the bedroom. She said one mother had 12 illegitimate children. She got $800 a month, which was maximum, so she put her 13-year-old daughter to work raising a new family.

Abby, $148 (tax free) for one child, plus $1 per day, times 30 days per month, times five or six children, plus free housing, medical care, and food stamps, equals what some working men have to raise their families on. I am not saying that anyone is getting rich on welfare, but I wonder what would happen if these women were required to rise and shine at 6 a.m. and go to work in order to raise their illegitimate children.

You were right the first time when you said you thought that any woman who bears more than one illegitimate child should be taken off welfare. By apologizing for your original statement, I believe you made your first mistake. Mrs. R. C. M., Jr., Glendale, Calif.

DR. BROTHERS:

His new apartment is 'Temptation' to coed

By DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

Dear Dr. Brothers: I have been going with my boyfriend for almost eight months now. He is moving into an off-campus apartment this week and I know that this new privacy will make it harder for me to refuse to go to bed with him any more. I can't seem to make up my mind. One day I'm convinced that it is ridiculous to wait any longer. The next day it seems impossible and a mistake. I'm afraid he's losing patience with me. — F.I.

Dear Miss I.: In the movies these days, the hero has less and less difficulty convincing the heroine of the wisdom of going to bed with him. But for the average young adult, life is seldom so simple. Psychiatrist S.L. Halleck of the University of Wisconsin Medical Center associates most of the sexual problems of college students with premarital intercourse, the most common problem arising out of the conflict of whether or not to participate in full sexual relations.

Girls have the most conflicts over this decision because the persistence of the double standard still makes it more momentous for the girl to relinquish her virginity than for the boy.

The typical girl is most distressed when she becomes involved in a serious relationship which seems to be heading towards increasingly greater sexual intimacy. She is unsure of her own feelings and not able to always understand her motivations.

It is important that you give fair hearing to the feelings within you, both those that incline you towards premarital sexual relations and those that make you reluctant and hesitant.

The girl who has strong religious convictions about the morality of premarital sex should not attempt to ignore these feelings.

Doubts about the strength of the relationship of affection for the boy should be heeded. Sexual relations in which love is absent and security lacking are seldom satisfying for a woman.

Your fears that your boyfriend is about to lose patience with you or leave you seem to indicate that you feel more impelled by desires to ensure the continuance of your association with this boy than by the desire for complete intimacy.

Your boyfriend's impatience with you may arise more from his own needs to prove himself sexually than a desire to create a deeper bond between you.

The male college student may become anxious about his lack of sexual experience and his adequacy with women. He may not be emotionally ready for the demands of an intimate relationship with a girl, although he is eager to prove himself in bed.

However, if your boyfriend is genuinely concerned with you and seeks to develop your relationship, he will most likely be able to understand your reasons for hesitancy. If he chooses to make an issue of your reluctance and end your relationship, you may regret momentarily your resistance but in the long run you will probably be glad for the break.

Too many girls work under the illusion that freely offering sex will bind a boy to them and are badly hurt when the boy eventually rejects them for a new conquest.

Don't make things difficult for your boyfriend by allowing intimate situations to progress uncontrolled. There are limits to his patience and you might find it best to avoid the apartment until you are sure of your own feelings.

As a first step to determine whether a young man is sincere, send 10 cents and a stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Brothers, in care of The Press, and ask for a copy of her leaflet, "How to Tell a Man's Intentions."

Spring weights Go into effect

LANSING (AP) — Spring weight restrictions go into effect at noon Thursday on all state highways in both Upper and Lower Peninsulas, the State Highway Department reminded. Legal loads will be permitted only on highways designated as all-season trucklines on the department's truck operator's map.

GM reveals new recall

Another 1.1 million cars need brake check

DETROIT (AP) — Three weeks after announcing the biggest car recall in the automobile industry's history, General Motors is calling back another 1.1 million vehicles, this time for correction of possible brake defects. The two recalls cover 6 million cars, buses and trucks.

Linked to the latest callback was the crash of a GM-built bus last autumn at Huntsville, Ala. which killed a 4-year-old boy and injured 24 other junior high school pupils.

On Feb. 26 GM asked owners of 4.9 million vehicles to take them back to dealers for correction of possible carburetor and exhaust system defects. GM said then four deaths had been attributed to faulty exhaust systems.

Involved in the new call were Pontiac cars and Chevrolet and GMC trucks and buses. GM declined comment Tuesday on the crash of the General Motors bus in Alabama, but noted that an investigator for the National Highway Safety Bureau said that a seal in the bus' master brake cylinder was worn enough to cause a hydraulic pressure failure.

The report, GM said, also stated the vehicle's brake linings were worn and could have been a contributing factor to the crash.

GM also said seven accidents had been reported involving trucks, another involving a school bus and something under 20 involving the Pontiac automobiles—1965 and 1966 Pontiac Catalinas, Star Chiefs, Bonneville and Grand Prix models.

The autos were recalled for replacement of two front brake hoses which according to field experience could fail after extended mileage, GM said. A total of 967,000 Pontiacs were involved.

Other vehicles involved in the recall were: —164,050 Chevrolet and GMC truck and coach bus chassis and medium duty trucks for replacement of the primary seal which controls hydraulic pressure in the brake system.

—2,040 Chevrolet and GMC four wheel drive light duty trucks which may have a brake drum distortion caused by wheel interference. This could eventually result in cracking of the wheel disc.

—630 GMC heavy duty highway tractors for rerouting of air brake application valve hoses to prevent possible chafing on left front tires during full right turns. Rupture and loss of brake action could result.

GM listed these model years and vehicles: 147,000 Chevrolet and GMC medium duty truck chassis for model years 1967 and 1968; 8,300 Chevrolet bus chassis, 1967 and 1968; 6,000 GMC medium duty truck chassis built in the early model run of 1969; and 2,150 GMC bus chassis for model years 1967 and 1968.

Owners of the suspected vehicles will be notified by registered mail. They will be asked to take their cars, trucks and buses to dealers for inspection and possible repair at no cost, GM said.

TEEN DATE-LINE

By ELE and WALT DULANEY

Dear Ele: My boyfriend gave me some Bible chapters to read. My mother noticed the note before I had a chance to look them up and she read them. Now I can't date him anymore because the verses were really bad. She won't give me the note back and I don't know just what was so awful. Is this fair? And can anything that's in the Bible really be so bad? — BYF.

DEAR BYF: Ten to one, your boyfriend directed to the Songs of Solomon. These Bible verses compare the passion of a woman waiting for her bridegroom with the feelings of a true believer for his God. The images are sensual but certainly not dirty.

I'd suggest you find the most sympathetic adult in church and ask him to discuss the problem with you and your boyfriend. Then request that he chat with your mom. It's your only chance of ending the boyfriend ban. — Ele.

State Dems hit Nixon ABM plan

LANSING (AP) — Michigan Democrats will join other groups across the country in opposing President Nixon's proposal for an antiballistic missile system, State Party Chairman James McNeely said Tuesday. "ABM does nothing to improve our ability to defend ourselves against attack from Russia or China," McNeely said. "The time has come for the people of this country to stop being bamboozled into outrageous expenditures of money because of the scare tactics of the military - industrial complex, who have the most to gain from such expenditures," he said.

Life & Leisure: A guide for dedicated fun-lovers

What's at the movies tonight

ROMEO AND JULIET: Director Franco Zeffirelli's contemporary retelling casts two real teen-agers in the roles of the adolescent lovers. The dramatic poetry of Shakespeare's lines is somewhat obscured, but the freshness and immediacy of this down-key version more than compensate for the loss. In Zeffirelli's hands, the play becomes one of character, and the transformation is as exciting emotionally as it is intellectually. — Fox Village

THE HEART IS A LONELY HUNTER: Carson McCuller's story of a deaf-mute too sensitive for the vulgar tragedies of this world, too compassionate for the people who inhabit it. A fragile film kept this side of sentimentality by Alan Arkin's flawless handling of the title role. — Campus

COOGAN'S BLUFF: A would-be powerful contrast between parochial and enlightened views of the law is sadly obscured in a film which relies on needless violence to bring home its message. Lee J. Cobb turns in a good performance as the "city" cop, but Clint Eastwood plays his country counterpart with characteristic flatness. On a bill with "House of Cards." — State

THE DETECTIVE: Frank Sinatra stars in this graphic representation of the criminal subculture of the city. The story itself is unremarkable, dealing far too superficially with many of the critical issues it touches upon. What is exceptional is that the movie attempts to break with the age-old stereotypes of honor-bright policemen and rotten-to-the-core criminals. If only for its effort at honesty, the film is worth consideration. — State-Wayne

THE NIGHT OF THE FOLLOWING DAY: Marlon Brando has once again found a film worthy of his talents in Hubert Cornfield's chilling study of the pathology underlying the kidnapping of a young girl. Psychological acuity is matched by technical brilliance in a film which ranks among the best thrillers in recent memory. — Quo Vadis Penthouse II.

ANGRY BREED—THE VIOLENT ONES: Films that can be accused of anything but pretentiousness, this double-bill gives the 'bread and circus' lovers a full measure of uncensored action. Whatever turns you on... — University Drive-In.

THE BROTHERHOOD: Focusing on the members of a single family, the film tells the epic story of the Mafia contrasting the crude racketeering of the old days with the 'respectable' business enterprises which mask the modern underground. The film bogs down a bit in perverse nostalgia, but on the whole, it is chillingly effective in its realism. — Wayne Drive-In.

THE HORSE IN THE GRAY FLANNEL SUIT: The usual magic which sparks a Walt Disney film is missing in this agonizingly overextended story of a horse who triumphs both in the show ring and on Madison Avenue. On a double bill with a new "Winnie the Pooh" short, the second feature really carries the bill. — Martha Washington.

2001: A SPACE ODYSSEY: Spectacular cinema effects have made Stanley Kubrick's futuristic epic one of the most well-deserved hits of the season. The relative absence of dialogue and narrative only increases the visual magnificence of a film which challenges all the unique possibilities of the film media. — Quo Vadis

PLANET OF THE APES: Human space travelers find themselves in a world turned upside down in which apes rule and humanoid beings are hunted as quarry. Plenty of room for either good satire or not-so-good slapstick; the filmmakers chose the low road. — Ypsi-Ann, Willow and Algier's Drive-ins.

GREETINGS: Anti-establishment satire loosely wound on the theme of three youths passing time until they receive the inevitable "greetings" from their friendly draft board. Ranging from blackest comedy to sheer hilarity, the film is no less meaningful for the fact that it is also superbly entertaining. — Fifth Forum

SWISS FAMILY ROBINSON: One of Walt Disney's most spectacular adventure stories, the film recreates the classic about a family stranded on a deserted island and forced to make their home there. Technically and artistically up to the standards. — Wayside

RACHEL, RACHEL: A chronicle of human failure, of the perpetual spinster who turns everything she touches to sterility and defeat. Paul Newman's first attempt at direction may well establish him as an artist in a second field, while Joanne Woodward's performance proves, once again, her virtuosity as a character actress. — Campus Milan

I LOVE YOU, ALICE B. TOKLAS: Establishment man Peter Sellers samples some update brownies and follows his modern Alice B. into the hippie underworld. Rather crude and slapstick, but it's a Seller's market! — Wayne Drive-In.

BULLITT: Director Peter Yates has taken two movie clichés—the grimly honest cop in a corrupt world and one-dimensional "star" Steve McQueen — and made them both work. Artistically and technically superior; a cinema triumph. — State-Wayne, Quo Vadis Penthouse I VALLEY OF THE DOLLS: Taken from the novel of the same name which probes the sexual and other hangups of the pill-popping generation, the movie is just as bad as the former bestseller and ought to do just as well with a not-too-discriminating audience. — Ypsi-Ann, Willow and Algier's Drive-ins.

CHARLY: Sensitive story of a mentally-retarded man given a second chance by a miraculous brain operation, and eventually plunged back into darkness when the new advance proves temporary. An easy candidate for embarrassing paths, the film is saved by dedicated low-key direction and Cliff Robertson's almost loving portrayal of the ill-fated hero. (G) — La Parisen, Michigan

BARBARELLA: Jane Fonda plays a futuristic space traveler in a film with as little substance as its star's scanty wardrobe. — Wayne Drive-In.

Omar Sharif and Catherine Deneuve recreate one of the greatest love stories of all time in the new motion picture "Mayerling", soon to be shown at local theaters.

TV

THE PUMPKIN EATER: Anne Bancroft and Peter Finch star in this drama of a woman seeking love so desperately that she paradoxically denies it. Directed by Jack Clayton ("Room at the Top") from a script by Harold Pinter. — 9 p.m.; Ch. 7

BOB HOPE: Jimmy Durante, Cyd Charisse, Ray Charles and Nancy Sinatra, join Bob for an hour of laughter and song. Highlights include a Ray Charles medley and a sketch starring Bob as the student protest leader at Rumble U. — 9 p.m.; in color on Ch. 4

ANDY WILLIAMS: The love generation takes over as Jose Feliciano, Donovan, the Smothers Brothers and the Tina Turner Soul Revue join Andy for his second special of the season. Amidst showers of flowers, guests offer such gifts of love as Donovan's fable about the lost continent Atlantis, a spoof of food fascism and most of the best sounds of the times. — 10 p.m.; in color on Ch. 4

Business of fashion:

'Pizzazz' special cavorts merrily

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — Unfortunately, there are a few areas of genuine public interest that stubbornly evade television treatment: financial news, because no one yet has been able to make statistics "visual" in the TV sense, and fashions—women's and men's—probably because the models are likely to attract more attention than the clothes they are wearing. "The Wonderful World of Pizzazz," despite the title was an ambitious NBC special Tuesday night, and it bravely tackled the business of fashion from a non-news angle. It used the business of clothes as an excuse for music, comedy and camera effects.

In the course of the hour, women in the audience didn't learn an awful lot about the height of future hemlines, or even current ones. But we saw a large number of skinny models in colorful and mostly way-out clothes cavorting merrily. The program started with some costumes bizarre enough to have captured the attention of newsreel men in the 30s and 40s. It followed an interesting thread by showing briefly what designers are up to in such places as Hong Kong, Hawaii, Tokyo, Sweden, Australia and Russia as well as in such fashion centers as Paris, London and New York.

Carl Reiner, a 1969 fashion plate in sideburns and a wardrobe in peacock hues, had a couple of funny bits, particularly when he demonstrated personally the great variety of hair pieces now on the market including fake beards and mustaches.

The musical numbers were vivacious and amusing.

CBS's fine "60 Minutes" opened with a series of interviews with some Baltimore welfare recipients that primarily showed people in real need. It was highlighted by a moving description by Sen. Charles Percy of his feelings as a boy in the depression when his family was forced to accept public assistance in an emergency.

For sharp contrast, it was followed by a visit with "The Beautiful People"—the tycoons, the millionaires, the socialites—who cluster in Palm Beach from January through March. Much of the film and its sharp commentary by Charlotte Curtis of the New York Times was accompanied by the playing of the song, "If I Were a Rich Man."

We learned that the beautiful people play tennis and croquet, attend charity balls, avoid discussing distressing national problems. The women wear their diamonds by the pound; the men wear loafers but never socks.

IOLANTHE: Iolanthe is a fairy whose son has fallen in love with a mortal woman and decides to win her love in the political arena from his rival Lord Chancellor. What follows is a hilarious spoof of everything from politics to grand opera in one of Gilbert and Sullivan's best loved musicals. — U-M Gilbert and Sullivan Society production at Trueblood Theater, 105 S. State, Ann Arbor; 8 p.m. curtain, Saturday at 7 and 10 p.m.; tickets $2.50.

DR. FAUSTUS: Christopher Marlowe's story of the man who sold his soul to the devil in exchange for the pleasures of the earthly realm. Produced by the world-famous Royal Shakespeare under the direction of Clifford Williams. — Fisher Theater, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. curtain; tickets from $3 to $6.50.

THE GOOD WOMAN OF SEZUAN: The most recent addition to the Hilberry repertory is this new English adaptation of Brecht's powerful allegory about a Chinese prostitute designated by the gods as the only good woman on earth. Directed by Leonard Leone with musical direction by Robert H. Cowden.—Hilberry Classic Theater, WSU, Detroit; 8:30 p.m. curtain; tickets from $2 to $3

AMPHYTRION 38: Jean Giraudoux' "immortal" farce about the ribald god Jupiter's confrontation with the mating games of mortals. Under the direction of Douglas Seale.—Meadow Brook Theater, University of Oakland, Rochester; through April 13 with shows at 8:15 p.m., Sunday at 6:30 p.m.; tickets from $2 to $5

Special

MEIN KAMPF, a film adapted from Hitler's incredibly revealing autobiography will be shown tonight at EMU under the auspices of the Munson Club. Hardly to be enjoyed, it's a movie all the more chilling for the fact that much of it came true. — EMU Strong Hall, 7 p.m. showing; 75c admission.

CITIZEN KANE: Orson Welles 1941 classic that revolutionized the concept of cinema as a true art form. A powerful story of the thinly-disguised exploits of William Randolph Hearst, the film stands as one of the greatest movies ever made. — U-M Architecture Auditorium, Ann Arbor; 7 and 9:05 p.m. showings; admission 75c

Peter Finch, Anne Bancroft and James Mason star in "The Pumpkin Eaters," the tragic story of a woman driven to self-destruction, tonight at 9 on channel 7.

Music

UNIVERSITY CHAMBER CHOIR: Under the direction of Thomas Hilbish, the choir will present a concert this evening in Hill Auditorium. The program will include Poulenc's "Mass in G," Brahms' "Liedes Lieder Waltzes," Ives' "Psalm 90" and the world premiere of Rorem's "Paris Journal." — U-M Hill Auditorium, Ann Arbor; 8 p.m. concert; admission free

THE BAROQUE TRIO: featuring Nelson Hauenstein, flute, Florian Mueller, oboe, Lawrence Hurst, double bass, and Charles Fisher, harpsichord, will present a concert of period music this evening. Included in the program are works by Heinrich, Pepuch, Telamann, Lerillet, Boyce and Barsanti. — U-M School of Music Recital Hall, Ann Arbor; 8:30 p.m. concert; admission free

THE MSU STATE SINGERS, as well as a madrigal ensemble from within the choir, will present a concert this evening at Belleville High School. Columbia Blvd.; 8 p.m. concert; tickets $1, 50c for students.

Children

A PICTURE BOOK is what you read before you're ready for a real book. But on second thought, here are two good reasons why beginning readers don't have to be cheated at all. Ruth A. Sonneborn's "Seven in a Bed" (Viking; $2.95) is a perfect example of a book in which pictures tell a real story. Papa's new house is not yet ready, but that doesn't stop Mama from coming home with four children, a brand new baby and two visiting cousins. What to do? Seven in a bed, of course, with all the merry adventures of a hectic night summed up in a final picture of the body-strewn battlefield on the morning after. Visual delights are also the mainstay of Syd Hoff's story of a turquoise blue "Baseball Mouse" (Putnam $3.29). Safely ensconced in a hole on the baseball field, it's little wonder that Bernard the Mouse should make the sport his chosen profession. He tries other things to please his parents, but his heart is on the diamond, and all ends triumphantly when Bernard saves the big game in the bottom of the ninth to become the team's mascot. The narrative is simple and understated, and children will be thrilled to discover for themselves the playful discrepancy between the somber tone and the whimsical pictorial story. Children love books they can almost "read" by themselves, and parents who tire of reading bedtime stories will find these new imaginative picture books a real boon.

MOON MAPS are one of the biggest commercial by-products of the approaching lunar landing. National Geographic Magazine printed their first map of the moon last month and reports heavy reader demand for more. Rand-McNally, which printed a map in 1967, is busily preparing a globe, while a German-made chart is doing the biggest business of all — it includes the locations of unmanned moon landings and comes equipped with markers to note the spot where Americans (or Russians) first land.

THE GRAPHIC ART OF ROLF NESCH: An innovator in print media techniques, Mr. Nesch has poured some forty years of work into developing the print to a point of textural artistry. The current collection contains more than 150 of the artist's pieces, including many of the prints and plates from which they were originally cut. An exciting exhibit, broadened by the addition of two lectures on March 21 and 25, on different aspects of Nesch's accomplishment. — Detroit Institute of Arts, 5200 Woodward; through April 27 with galleries open Wednesday through Sunday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Tuesday from 9:30 a.m. to 9:30 p.m.

ART FOR COLLECTORS is the general name given to an exhibition of approximately 300 works available for purchase currently on display at the Toledo Museum of Art. Ranging from ancient glass and pottery to contemporary paintings and prints, the show is designed to present young collectors with an array of fine art objects not ordinarily readily available. The collection has been gathered from all over the world and offers at prices between $10 and $2,500 a full spectrum of major art pieces. — Toledo Museum of Art, Toledo, Ohio; through March 23 with galleries open daily from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Sunday and

3 House bills try To lick stamp fad

LANSING (AP) — Do trading stamps really offer something for nothing, a reward for a customer's patronage? Three bills just introduced in the House suggest the opposite, that trading stamps impose on and an attempt to foil an unwary public.

Sponsored by Rep. Harold B. Clark, D-Warren, the bills contain language that one legislator called an effort to stamp out stamps.

Clark's bills would take effect Sept. 1. If enacted they would:

—Require any retailer offering trading stamps to offer as well the option of a 2 per cent cash discount.

—Require stamp distributors to buy $150 licenses annually from the state, post bond of at least $25,000 but not more than $50,000 and disclose pertinent information about the officers and location of the distributing company.

—Provide for cash redemption of stamps valued at more than $1 and require equivalent cash values to be printed on each stamp.

Additionally, retailers offering trading stamps would be taxed at a base rate of two mills for the lowest denomination offered. Higher denominations would be taxed at the two-mill rate multiplied by the equivalent number of the lower valued stamps.

Retailers also would be required to report estimates of trading stamp taxes owed to the treasury department. Other provisions spell out penalties for delays or failure to comply with the proposed regulations.

Revenge Motive cited In jail death

DETROIT (AP) — Revenge was the motive in the poisoning death of a Wayne County jail inmate, said Sheriff Roman Gibbbs Tuesday as he announced charges of conspiracy to commit murder against two brothers and a friend.

William Nickopoulos, 41, his brother Thomas, 38, and John Andrew, 23, were charged with plotting to kill Lyle Griffith Jr., 33, a convicted armed robber.

Griffith had testified last June against William Nickopoulos in an armed robbery case in which Nickopoulos was sentenced to 10-20 years in prison.

Griffith died in his cell Feb. 2 moments after eating a cyanide capsule apparently in a coconu cupcake.

Brazil produces most of its own foodstuffs, relying only on wheat as an import.

R SUGAR MAY NOT SHOW IN THE URINE

It is the oversupply of sugar in the blood, not in the urine, that constitutes diabetes. When the blood sugar level is high some of it, not all, spills over into the urine.

The sugar test for urine is good and easy. It can detect many, but not everybody who has diabetes. Many older persons have elevated blood sugar with no urine sugar. Has your physician checked your blood this year? If you have a family history with diabetes, better see him.

YOUR DOCTOR CAN PHONE US when you need a medicine. Pick up your prescription if shopping nearby, or we will deliver promptly without extra charge. A great many people entrust us with their prescriptions. May we compound and dispense yours?

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT DRUGS?

Do you know what LSD actually does? What constitutes "habit" and "addiction"? How to recognize a marijuana smoker? Why people turn to drugs?

The booklet, WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT DRUGS & NARCOTICS, answers these questions and others of equal importance. Drugs are a very real problem in America today. They can affect you. You should know what they are and what you, as a responsible citizen, can do.

The Booklet is available at THE YPSILANTI PRESS office for $1.00 per copy. Or order by mail, add 15c for postage and handling.

Obituaries

Sp-4 Earl T. Hoag
729 Fox Avenue
Ypsilanti Township

Age 20. Was killed in action in Vietnam Saturday March 8, 1969. He was born March 9, 1948 in Detroit, Michigan, the son of Robert and Mary Nash Hoag. He graduated from East Tawas High School June 1966, came to Ypsilanti Sept. 1966. He attended Alpena Junior College and Cleary College and was employed by the United Air Lines. He went into service April 20, 1968, served his basic training at Fort Ord, California and his advanced training in Fort Polk, Louisiana, and was shipped overseas August, 1968. He was a member of the First Baptist Church of Tawas City. Surviving besides his parents are his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Mathew M. Hoag of East Tawas; maternal grandfather, John F. Nash of Carlsbad, California; three brothers, Richard, Gerald and Robin all at home; several aunts, uncles and cousins also survive. Funeral services will be at the Moore Funeral Home, 1:30 p.m. Friday with the Rev. Alfred P. Miller officiating. Military graveside services will follow in Grand Lawn Cemetery in Detroit. Friends may call after 2 p.m. Thursday.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:
A X Y D L B A A X R
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

REAL ESTATE & INSURANCE

ATTRACTIVE RANCH HOME: Very fine three bedroom brick veneer ranch home all in the best of condition. This home has a beautifully finished basement with a fourth bedroom finished down there and also a finished recreation room and a second bath. Modern kitchen with built-in oven and stove. Aluminum screen and storm windows. Wall to wall carpet in living room. Gas heat. This is priced right at $23,600 and we have applied for an FHA mortgage commitment so that the purchase may be handled on convenient terms. Estimated down payment (subject to FHA appraisal) around $1,500 plus mortgage costs.

HICKORY HILLS RANCH HOME: We had this 3 bedroom brick ranch home in the attractive Hickory Hills section on the market last fall — but sale at that time required around $10,000 down, too much for most folks. We have now secured an FHA commitment for $23,400 so that deal can be handled for $1,600 down plus closing costs. Full basement. Extra well insulated. Built in oven and stove. Gas heat. Aluminum screens and storm windows. Garbage disposal. $25,000.

BETWEEN YPSILANTI AND BELLEVILLE: This custom built split level brick home is only 1 year old and has 4 bedrooms in all, 3 upstairs, and one down. Three zone gas fired hot water baseboard type heating system. Kitchen has stainless steel stove. Living room, hall, and all 4 bedrooms, carpeted wall to wall. Full bath up and half bath down. For those of you who prefer plastered walls, this house has them and also marble window sills. 21 foot long Family Room. Fireplace. 2 car garage all plastered and insulated. $34,600.

NEIGHBORHOOD GROCERY STORE: One of the well located and old time grocery stores in a residential area near college. This has provided present and previous owners with an excellent living for years. $7,000 buys all fixtures — stock may be purchased at wholesale inventory cost at time of sale. Building not included, but rent on same is only $75 month. This is a good man and wife operation.

Probation Works Financially

Offenders earn $38 million

LANSING (AP) — Persons placed on probation as an alternate to sentencing to jail or prison earned nearly $38 million last year, reports the State Corrections Department.

During 1968, state corrections director Gus Harrison said, there were a total of 50,859 persons placed on probation. The total included 32,209 convicted of misdemeanor (jail) offenses and 18,650 felony (prison) offenders.

Harrison noted that if only the felony offenders placed on probation had been sentenced to state correctional institutions, the prison population would be double its present level of some 7,800 inmates.

A followup study of the felony offenders, he said, showed that 75 per cent of them made a success of their chance at probation.

In addition to the $38 million earned, Harrison said, the probationers paid $817,000 in court ordered family support. This did not include support payments made through the friend of the court under divorce decrees.

Court costs paid into county treasuries amounted to $600,000 and $400,000 in fines went to libraries. Another $437,000 was returned by probationers to their victims as court ordered restitution.

"Good probationers and parolees are taxpayers instead of tax users, family supporters instead of welfare recipients and productive workers rather than drones," Harrison said.

Meanwhile, he said, the cost of supervising a person on probation or parole is less than one tenth of maintaining such a person in a correctional institution.

"Most courts recognize the desirability of corrective treatment in the community where feasible, and judges utilize probation in hopeful cases, particularly with first offenders," he said.

Livingston Attorney Indicted

DETROIT (AP) — Martin Lavan, the Livingston County attorney being investigate by the State Bar of Michigan for alleged unethical conduct, was indicted by a federal grand jury Tuesday on charges of evading more than $50,000 in income taxes.

Lavan was ordered to appear in federal court for arraignment on the charges within a week. Maximum penalty upon conviction is 15 years in prison and $30,000 in fines.

One of Lavan's attorneys, Albert Alteri, said, he would appear in federal court Thursday to ask the arraignment be postponed due to Lavan's illness.

The federal grand jury said in its charges that Lavan, who resides in Brighton, reported $33,757.03 as his income for 1962, 1963 and 1964 tax returns, when it allegedly was $149,488.28.

The charges further alleged Lavan paid $9,781.08 in income tax, when it should have been $60,282.54.

Citing a heart ailment, Lavan refused to appear before a State Bar grievance committee in December and January in an investigation of charges of professional misconduct.

It takes an expert to grade beef!

In our great country we're lucky. Our government trains and employs experts... men who inspect and grade beef at hundreds of locations throughout the nation. They protect you... and retailers, like us. That's why A&P is happy there's a U.S. government inspector on the premises of our meat plant serving this area. Also important are A&P's OWN beef experts. Their job is to see to it that A&P Beef measures up to our own "SUPER-RIGHT" quality standards... No wonder we don't hesitate to guarantee that the "SUPER-RIGHT" Beef you buy will be as flavorful and tender as you think it should be, or your money back.
